Area employers seek job applicants

By MARY KAY McPARTLIN
marykay@tecumsehherald.com

Whether looking for employment for the first time or ready to try a job change, Tecumseh is the place to be for employment. According to Brooke Johnson, marketing coordinator for Express Employment Professionals, now is a good time to look for a job.

"We are most excited in our office about seeing the unemployment rate go down and helping people find work. The current unemployment rate for Lenawee County is four percent," she said.

"Express is currently hiring for many light industrial positions in Lenawee County. Manufacturing is booming right now, and companies are willing to train. There are openings for first, second, and third shifts and our positions pay anywhere from ten dollars to sixteen dollars per hour. We are seeing an increase in skilled trades positions, also, and currently have openings in Lenawee and Monroe Counties."

Companies in need of light industrial workers may only require a high school diploma or a GED, and, according to Johnson, some have no educational requirement at all.

Jessica Sattler, economic development director for Tecumseh, has also seen a need for employees in all areas of business in the city. "The economy is booming everywhere right now," said

Sattler. "It's just a sign of the economic times and good health in our community. We've done really well in Tecumseh with our workforce. Right now it's an employee's market."

Skilled trade workers like machinists, HVAC technicians, welders, electricians and entry-level general laborers are important to Tecumseh. "We have a pretty good automotive supply sector," Sattler

Women and Children's Ministry Center to host open house, ribbon cutting

By JACKIE KOCH
jackie@tecumsehherald.com

The new Women and Children's Ministry Center created at the former Herrick Manor nursing home by Neighbors of Hope (NOH) will hold an open house with tours of the facility Saturday, Aug. 10 from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. The center, which has gone through many stages of renovation since NOH acquired the building from ProMedica Health Systems, will be ready for residents next week thanks to the work and contributions of countless businesses, community members, NOH board and staff members, and volunteers. The center will feature programs for women and children who are homeless.

NOH Board Member Kathy Williams said the center will hold a non-perishable food drive during the open house and will accept canned and dry goods like peanut butter, jelly, pasta and tomato sauce, condiments and more. She particularly hoped for ingredients such as flour, spices, vanilla, baking powder and soda so that residents will be able to do some baking in the new kitchen. "We've got empty cupboards over here," she said.

An official ribbon cutting will take place at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 13 with the Tecumseh Area Chamber of Commerce, and after that the center will begin accepting residents.

"We won't be starting out full. At capacity we can hold 54 people, but we'll be starting out with a smaller amount so that we can make sure we get our programs all in line, and that things are set up right," Williams said.

Program Director Dee Crane said no more tours of the facility at 500 E. Pottawatamie St. will be given after August 13, due to privacy issues when residents are living there. She said she has completed two trainings to qualify 24 people as center volunteers, and will be holding six more volunteer trainings.

Those interested in the two-hour training may contact Crane at 517.301.4939.

City seeks voter approval for road millage renewal

By JIM LINCOLN
jim@tecumsehherald.com

Tecumseh city residents are likely to see a ballot proposal in November's general election for renewal of the local street millage.

On Monday, Tecumseh City Council approved a resolution to submit ballot language for the renewal request to Lenawee County Clerk Roxann Holloway. The request seeks a renewal of 1.98 mills over five years for a $2.5 million bond proposal.

The millage enhances the funding the city currently receives from the state for local street improvements.

"Unfortunately, the level of funding the city currently receives from the State of Michigan from the gas tax is woefully inadequate for the amount of work required to maintain the streets in fair or good condition," city manager Dan Swallow said in his report to council. Swallow said it would take 60 years to resurface Tecumseh's streets based on the current level of funding received from the state. "While the city of Tecumseh has been utilizing general funds to help offset the funding shortfall, without the renewal of the millage, the condition of the streets would likely decline," Swallow said.

Based on the millage request of 1.98 mills, the owner of a home valued at $150,000 would pay about $150 per year, and the owner of a $200,000 would pay approximately $200.

"People need to know that this millage can only be used for roads. If they understand that, then I think it will pass," said councilman Gary Naugle.

Mayor Jack Baker said the city cannot count on the state for additional funding. "This is a fair and balanced approach, but we'll let the voters decide," Baker said.

The deadline to submit the ballot language to the county for November's election is Tuesday, August 13.

Council supports plan to reduce traffic lanes through downtown

By JIM LINCOLN
jim@tecumsehherald.com

A plan to reduce the number of traffic lanes, or "road diet," through downtown Tecumseh on Chicago Boulevard, from Oneida to Pearl streets, was endorsed by city council on Monday.

A resolution approving the plan was passed unanimously and will be forwarded to the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) that ultimately makes the decision as it holds jurisdiction over M-50 and the boulevard.

Complaints about pedestrian and traffic safety have been received at city hall with concerns that lanes are too narrow, making it difficult to exit parked vehicles, side mirrors are broken off, and that pedestrians do not feel safe crossing the boulevard. Additional concerns have been raised about the high speed of traffic through the downtown.

MDOT has announced plans to resurface Chicago Boulevard in 2021 with design work set for next year.

If realized, there would be one lane each for eastbound and westbound traffic and a center turn lane.

A study by engineering consultants Wade-Trim concluded that traffic congestion would not be significant. There would be no cost to the conversion if it's conducted with MDOT's planned resurfacing project.

CROSWELL
SISTER ACT

Inner Space

By Jackie Koch

On Saturday I purchased something from a charity resale store, but when I got home I found something was missing from the package, so I went back to return it. The store employee said I would only receive store credit and not the cash I wanted. As it was only an hour since I had made my purchase, I was incensed at the inconvenience.

I was determined to find something else to exchange for it immediately, rather than receiving a slip of paper I was likely to lose or forget about. As I stewed about my money and perused the shelves, I felt an uncharacteristic anger and became concerned that I seemed to be coming unglued over a small amount of money.

Although I was able to calm myself and make an exchange, I left the store with a lingering edge of tension. It was hard to shake that feeling of anger and unrest lurking just underneath the surface of self-control.

Later I attended a barn party in the Dexter area, where I danced and listened to music. It was an evening of joy, my heart expanding and feeling friendliness to all in attendance, and I considered my temporary irritation a thing of the past. All was well for an evening.

But Sunday morning I awoke to the news of another mass shooting, this time in Dayton, Ohio. The morning before I'd learned about the massacre in El Paso, Texas, not long on the heels of the shooting last week in Gilroy, California.

With the pieces all in place, I saw the connection to my emotional instability. I have become numb to the news of domestic terrorism, but only because that has been my only way to cope with the frightening reality that this kind of thing is happening at an accelerated pace in this country. This is our new normal, if we can be honest. These mass shootings are so prevalent that I no longer feel shocked, just laden with another layer of numbing weight.

Inside, however, my heart is broken. Fear of what could be, of what could happen to me or any of my loved ones, is a permanent resident in the back of my mind. And if not me or my loved ones, then it could be someone else's, and that is also unacceptable.

I don't have an easy solution to this issue, and it's obvious no one else does. Blame it on mental illness and you further stigmatize almost all people who deal with some level of mental or emotional conflicts but manage to refrain from mass murder. If it's a mental health issue, how do we explain the lack of diversity in the description of almost all mass shooters in the U.S. in the past dozen or so years? This is obviously a horrifying trend. Who is doing studies of this type of behavior, and if no one is, why aren't they? I have many questions, as I'm sure most Americans do.

Perhaps we have to accept that, like the increase in auto accident deaths once motorized vehicles overtook horses as transportation, domestic terrorism deaths are inevitable now. With far more weaponry than any other country at 120.5 guns per 100 residents, according to a 2018 Small Arms Survey, Americans own around 390 million guns. Never to be outdone, the U.S. is the greatest at weapons.

If we can't pray away our distress, we sometimes distract ourselves from the doom of living where one never knows if going to the grocery store, the movie theater, a school or a festival is safe, by bickering over how to load the dishwasher, whose opinion is "right," what to call school buildings, or a store's return policy, while treating each other like enemies.

We can't control who may have a gun and has evil intent, but we want to control the things we feel we can, and our unexpressed distress can come out as attacks against our fellow humans. I wonder how many others feel like emotional yo-yos.

I understand feeling helpless and powerless. However, we can do this: Speak kindly. Treat others respectfully. Listen to differing viewpoints. Remember your manners. Be a mentor. Be a friend. Live fully. Love one another. And in spite of those who would take light away, be a light in the darkness.

Healthy food quest leads to Ashdown Acres Family Farm

By JACKIE KOCH
jackie@tecumsehherald.com

A quest to provide healthy food for their family and others led Chris and Robyn Francis to create Ashdown Acres Family Farm on their Matthews Highway property after they purchased it in 2013, and after almost six years of work they are now selling their honey, eggs, and pork products to customers at the Tecumseh Farmers Market each Saturday.

"We moved to this property in October 2013 and the following spring we got our beehives and our chickens. Not long after that we started with pasture-raised pigs," said Robyn. They raise Idaho Pasture Pigs, a breed designed specifically for pasture based systems with the small farmer, homesteader and hobby farmer in mind, and began providing eggs, honey and meat to family and friends for a couple of years before branching out.

"It's been a great place to sell," she said of the farmers market. "We've made a lot of great connections and met a lot of really great people. The best part of the market is we have an opportunity to educate people about why our meat is different than what you might find in a store."

The pigs live outdoors with huts for shelter, and graze on fields. Their chickens are free range, which means they are only housed in coops at night to protect them from predators and the rest of the time they roam freely outdoors. The chickens are fed organic, soy-free grain.

The farm's honey is sold raw. "All we do is strain it," said Robyn. "Some places will heat it and pasteurize it. If you get honey at the store a lot of times it's not pure honey."

Ashdown Acres sells breakfast sausage, patties and links, maple sausage, Bratwurst and other cuts of meat. They use a U.S. Department of Agriculture-inspected Michigan processor that provides a variety of flavors, including their most recent addition, habanero-mango sausage. "We also have pork tenderloin as well as pork shoulder," she said. The meats are frozen and are stored in a freezer the Francis family brings to the farmers market.

They may try to sell at indoor markets for the winter, and also will sell whole hogs to customers. They are registered to sell live pigs to other farmers, and one of their sows just had a litter. Robyn said they'd like to add one or two cows next year and are thinking of other ways to expand, but they are dedicated to doing it all debt-free so are taking it one step at a time.

In addition to the responsibilities of the farm, Chris works full-time for the Lenawee County Road Commission, and Robyn, who previously worked at Tecumseh Public Schools as a teacher, principal and instructional coach, has accepted a new position at Blissfield Community Schools as the district's Title I director and literacy coach at the elementary level.

Their son Bennett, 13, and daughter Maelle, 10, both have chores on the 10-acre farm, as well. Bennett is in charge of the chicken operation, according to his mother.

"That's his thing. He takes care of the chickens, he cleans it out, he feeds them, gathers the eggs, washes the eggs. He's a big part of the farm in that way," she said. "They both help out."

Chris had experience working on a friend's dairy farm in Saline for several years and enjoyed the farming atmosphere, so having a family farm was a goal he aspired to. "I always liked being outside," he said, adding, "It's kind of fun to know where your food comes from."

"The other thing that really propelled us into what we're doing is just learning more about eating healthy and healthy food options, and so we wanted to be able to offer that to our family and we realized by doing that we might be able to help educate and bring healthier food choices to others, as well," said Robyn.

To contact Ashdown Acres Family Farm, see them at the Tecumseh Farmers Market at the Market on Evans, 213 N. Evans St., Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., visit their Facebook page, or call 734.323.4171.

Latest Dollar General coming to the Village of Britton

marykay@tecumsehherald.com

Dollar General has committed to building a store in the Village of Britton, making the village the latest municipality in Lenawee County to get a store. According to Britton Village Superintendent Jim Frayer, the company told village officials it would build a store in the village or in the township near Britton if the village blocked the company from building within village limits.

All the paperwork required by the village for a new business has been completed and filed. The only change to village regulations was the need for Dollar General to get a variance on 25 parking spots.

With the size of the business, Britton would require 55 spaces, but Dollar General only wanted 30 spaces. The variance was approved.

The Dollar General store will be built on the east side of the village on the south side of M-50 where Apple Tree Auto Sales is currently located. Owner Miguel Rodriguez owns two lots for his automotive sales and service business.

Dollar General is purchasing both of the lots from Rodriguez. "It's ninety-five percent done," said Rodriguez. "Permits are pulled but they don't have a builder yet."

Apple Tree Auto Sales will relocate to Tecumseh, where Rodriguez lives. "I'm going to end up moving to Tecumseh and work from my house," he said.

The village has received no details on groundbreaking for the new Dollar General store.

New TCA season to feature music, comedy, acrobats

Tecumseh Center for the Arts (TCA) has announced its 2019-2020 National Touring Season featuring five high caliber shows. Patrons may purchase season tickets to all five shows for $100 from August 20 through October 15. After that date, season tickets can still be purchased for $115 through November 2. The shows include music, comedy, acrobatics and dance.

- On Saturday, Nov. 2, award-winning musician and two-time Detroit Blues Champ John Latini will perform. Latini personifies the best that Michigan's rock history has to offer: an honest, no-nonsense commitment to real songs about real people. Whether he's tearing it up at a blues fest or captivating a room with original songs, folk and blues go arm in arm in his music like the blood brothers they are. Don't miss this intense, incandescent performer when he showcases his talent onstage at the TCA stage on November 2. The show begins at 7:30 p.m.

- Legends of Michigan Comedy will hit the stage Saturday, Jan. 25 at 7:30 p.m. The TCA is excited to host the Legends of Michigan Comedy, a show comprised of legendary comedians Dave Landau (Last Comic Standing), Bryan McCree (MADtv), Bill Bushart (Detroit Comedian of the Year), and Norm Stulz (Comedy Central). The Legends of Michigan Comedy Showcase is emceed by local favorite Steve Smargon (Bi-polar Marine). Experience an evening full of laughs with these Michigan greats.

- On Saturday, Feb. 15, New York, NY Dueling Pianos will return to the TCA for their performance at 7:30 p.m. This comedy-based dueling piano show is always a fun, high-energy party-in-a-box. The pianists sing and play everything from Jimmy Buffet, Garth Brooks, Billy Joel, Tom Petty, Lady Gaga, Elvis, Katy Perry, Metallica and just about anything else. New York, NY Dueling Pianos is a clap-a-long, sing-a-long, crazy fiesta with roasts, drinking songs, toasts, and hi-octane comedy.

- Featuring New York City's renowned ABCirque and live orchestrations by the contemporary group CORDIS, Le Cirque Esprit presents its latest creation, "Spirit of the Machine" Saturday, March 7 at 4 p.m. The new show is based on the Greek mythological tale of Talos — "the first machine"— and was inspired by CORDIS' epic multi-movement suite, The Only, which features mechanical instruments such as a 1902 Victor Talking Machine, a large custom-made music box, and a pocket watch. This performance is packed with breathtaking acrobatics and aerial acts paired with classic Steampunk-era circus artistry.

- Phase 5 will entertain Saturday, April 25 at 7:30 p.m. Voted the number one R&B Vocal Group in Detroit for 2016, Phase 5 brings their authentic re-creation of Motown's greatest hits to the TCA. Phase 5 is one of the most electrifying acts to come out of Detroit in a long time. Their smooth jazz mixed with a slamming "in your face" style of today's Hip Hop and R&B leaves the audience wanting more. The group is known for their flashy, well-choreographed dance moves and glittering eye-popping stage attire.

The TCA and concessions typically open one hour before showtime. Individual or season tickets may be purchased online at thetca.org, at the box office at 400

N. Maumee St. Tuesday-Friday from noon-5 p.m., or by calling 423.6617. For more information, visit the website or call the TCA.

JOBS FROM 1A

Help wanted signs plentiful around Tecumseh said. "There's always a need for skilled trade workers."

She has noticed an increase in job openings for downtown Tecumseh businesses in the retail and service sector of the city.

Next year there will be positions open to assist the city with the 2020 census. Accuracy of who lives here is important for Tecumseh if the city wants to attract new companies to the area.

Companies from other locations are looking for a strong economy, good workers and a good school system before they decide to invest in a community, according to Sattler.

"It's important for us to have a real accurate census this year," said Sattler. "We want to get a really good picture."

For those looking to see what employment opportunities there are in the city, Sattler recommends looking online at Indeed and MLive, as well as looking at companies' social media for job openings. MichiganWorks is also helpful at building skills and setting up open interviews, according to Sattler.

"We share a lot of opportunities for our downtown merchants," she said of the city's website, mytecumseh.org, and Facebook page.

Tecumseh Public Schools is another employer often looking to fill positions, in a variety of areas. Interim Superintendent Greg Lewis has been looking to fill teaching positions this summer.

"There's more of a teacher shortage," he said about the profession. "Now it's for real. Not in every area, but a lot of them."

A regular check on the human resources page of the district website, tps.k12.mi.us/departments/hr, is a good way to see what positions are available. As of August 6, 19 positions needed to be filled in athletics, teaching, maintenance, food service and secretarial. The application process begins online at the human resources web page.

Johnson knows switching jobs can be intimidating and has tips for those considering a change.

"When searching for a new job opportunity, it is important to trust your abilities. Don't let the thought of change scare you. It could turn out to be the best thing for your career," said Johnson. "It is important to not underestimate the power of mentorship. Seeking guidance and advice from knowledgeable people in your industry can add the most value to your skills and experience. They have gone through the process of building their career and can help keep you on track to succeed."

Neighbors of Hope fundraiser to feature comedian Jeff Allen

By JACKIE KOCH
jackie@tecumsehherald.com

A new twist on the annual fundraiser to benefit nonprofit Neighbors of Hope will bring popular “clean” comedian Jeff Allen to the Tecumseh Center for the Arts (TCA) stage Saturday, Nov. 9. Allen’s rapid-fire humor, which centers on marriage and family, has been featured on Showtime, Comedy Central, VH1 and more.

In addition, he starred in the critically acclaimed film “Apostles of Comedy,” the syndicated comedy series “Bananas,” his own one-hour comedy special “Happy Wife, Happy Life” and the Warner Bros. comedy film “Thou Shalt Laugh.” Facebook fans may recognize him from his Dry Bar Comedy videos that went viral earlier this year, introducing him to tens of millions of new fans worldwide. His one-man show, “The America I Grew Up In,” offers a unique view into his crazy world.

Also billed as a Christian comedian, Allen has been performing for decades at churches, marriage retreats and conventions, on television and radio, for fundraisers and at corporate functions across the country. His humor isn’t religious, however, if his Dry Bar videos are any indication — they focus on his observations of life.

NOH Board Member Kathy Williams said the board first had the idea to change their usual fundraiser to a comedy show during conversations in the spring. In past years NOH has held an evening of appreciation for donors that included an opportunity to hear about work the organization has done for the past year, and to make a contribution to the next year’s program costs. “Molly Mason, who’s on our board, said ‘What about getting a good comedian to come in?’” Williams said, and the wheels started turning.

NOH Executive Director Steven Palmer suggested Allen as a comedian to contact. “I sent an email to them, telling them about our organization, and the next day I got a call from his agent,” said Williams. “He’d already checked us out online, he’d already checked out our Facebook, he was all excited because he said we’re exactly the kind of group that Jeff Allen likes to get involved with.”

Allen’s background includes drug and alcohol abuse, trouble in his marriage, seeking help through a 12-step program, and therapy. Williams said the connection Allen has to part of the mission of NOH, which is to support those affected by addiction, makes his upcoming performance that much more meaningful to those in the organization.

“It’s a significant investment to bring somebody of this name, but we’re hoping between now and then we can get some corporate sponsorships to help pay for it,” she said. Businesses interested in helping to sponsor the show may contact Williams at kathyw49221@gmail.com or 517.605.3027, or Palmer at steven@neighborsofhope.com.

Tickets for this event will go on sale Tuesday, Aug. 13 through the TCA box office at 400 N. Maumee St., online at thetca.org, or by calling 423.6617. Due to the popularity of Allen’s performances, those interested in attending are advised to purchase tickets early. “We really hope we could sell it out,” said Williams, noting that if the comedy show is successful, NOH would like to make it a yearly event.

Funds raised will go toward overhead costs for NOH programs, including the new Women and Children’s Ministry Center in Tecumseh at the former Herrick Manor nursing home, set to open August 13.

Tickets will be priced at $30, $40, $50 and $60, with prices higher for seats closer to the stage, and buyers will be able to choose their own seats. The show will run from 7:30-9 p.m. on November 9, with the TCA doors, box office and concessions open one hour before Allen hits the stage.

Harv’s Golf Outing to benefit Tecumseh Service Club

By JACKIE KOCH
jackie@tecumsehherald.com

The Muk Open, a golf outing that honored the memory of local citizens and raised funds for charity, took place for the final time last August, but thanks to the Tecumseh Service Club (TSC) board members and friends of the late Jim Harvey, a new incarnation of the popular golf tournament will return August 24 as Harv’s Golf Outing, to continue the work begun in 2004.

Originally started by Muk’s Sports Pub owner Karin Mukensturm in memory of her husband, Bill, the event originally donated all proceeds to the Gift of Life of Michigan, an organization that promotes organ and tissue donation. Both Bill and his sister, Sue, succumbed to the same complications from liver transplant issues three years apart, and Sue was also honored during subsequent tournaments.

After running the tournament for many years, Karin handed the reins to Jim Harvey, who had acted as DJ, providing music and enjoyment for participants at the outing since the second year of its existence. Harvey agreed to run the event upon the condition that the proceeds be given to the service club to assist local families.

Harvey passed away in February 2018, but he had already begun the work to ensure last year’s event would go on as planned. With friends pitching in, the final tournament named the Muk Open took place and it was thought the tradition would end there.

However, the community rallied together to support the TSC and organize a golf outing for this year, this time in Harvey’s name. “Jim Harvey and I had worked together for the last three years doing it,” said Colleen Sunderland, president of the TSC. After receiving support from Harvey’s widow, Patty, Sunderland, her husband, Mike, and service club members Jennifer Shearer and Christina Tonemah joined together with Harvey’s friends Beth Hunt, Amy McCrate and Wally Pike to bring the event back.

Sunderland said Pike will once again act as DJ of the tournament, which will have a 9 a.m. shotgun start at Raisin Valley Golf Club, 4057 Comfort Rd.

The event is still in need of hole sponsors for $100 each, as well as golfers. A team of four can register for $260, or $65 per golfer, which will include a round of golf with a cart, an early afternoon chicken luncheon, prizes, giveaways, and more. Sunderland said the prizes include golf baskets, entertainment packages and restaurant packages.

golf tournament, only because it’s so crazy,” Sunderland said. “They’re just there to have fun.”

The TSC is a non-profit, volunteer organization that assists families in need in Tecumseh, Clinton, Britton, and Tipton, so the funds will help local residents. “With fall coming up we may tend to use it for rent, but then the heating bills will be starting up,” Sunderland said. In addition, the organization has a Christmas assistance program and helps people with rent payments and utility bills year-round, as well as having a year-round food pantry and providing assistance with medical bills or prescriptions. The tournament has provided large donations each year it has given to the service club.

Those interested in becoming a sponsor or registering a team can contact Sunderland at 989.429.6740.

City Suggests Changing Plans for New Box Co. Construction

Unless Tecumseh Corrugated Box officials agree to alter their construction plans, a building permit to allow the company to expand as planned apparently will not be issued.

Council discussed the Tecumseh Box request for expansion Monday evening but only two — Councilman William Holmes and Donald Sunderland — spoke in favor of the company's plans.

City manager Cal Zorn told Council that he had met with Box officials Monday morning and was told by James Re-bideau, company president, that Tecumseh Box would not take its case to the Board of Appeals, last resort for a petitioner for a building permit and who has been turned down by the city.

The city manager told Council that a letter from him and some suggestions would be taken into consideration by the company. He said Box officials would reply within two weeks.

Council briefly discussed the company's expansion plans and suggested that the company could revise its plans.

Mr. Holmes remarked that the company undoubtedly know its own problems better than Council and questioned Council's intrusion into the company's building program without being aware of the needs.

Councilman Dr. Carlton Cook said that allowing the company to front on another street to meet zoning requirements was a "poor solution" and supported the present city stature governing industrial expansions here.

Mr. Sunderland pointed out that the ordinance does have a loop hole and probably should be re-written. Dr. Cook inferred the ordinance was satisfactory and would object to any change.

City Clerk Vera Zornow read a letter from the city manager to the company. In his letter, Mr. Zorn said a building permit would be allowed for certain stages of the company's program, but that he would have to deny a permit for the initial stage.

Tecumseh Box's first stage would be a 14,500-sq. ft. expansion to within a foot of its property line on S. Evans St. A second stage, which would probably be constructed at the same time, would be additional offices.

The company had hoped to start construction this fall.

Dr. Cook said that new construction there would not look pretty, and that we would have a "poor looking city if we allowed people to build as they please."

Several councilmen objected to The Herald's printing of the company's plans before Council had a chance to review it. Mr. Zorn told the newspaper last week that he did not plan to bring the matter before the city fathers since the company's request for a building permit was in violation of an ordinance, and that the proper procedure was to deny the permit and ask the company if it wanted to take its case before the Board of Appeals.

NEW PRINCIPAL — Ralph Block, 36, of Warren, has been employed by the Tecumseh Public Schools as principal for Patterson and Tipton elementary schools. He succeeds Earl Greene, who died last month. Mrs. Block accompanied her husband here Tuesday. They have three youngsters.

Boysville Juniors, Seniors To Attend Tecumseh High

Officials at Boysville have decided to phase out grades 11 and 12 there and send students from these grades to Tecumseh High School, Bro. Edward, Boysville principal, announced.

He says the reason for Boysville dropping its top two grades is to give these students an opportunity to better develop their social aspects by associating with other students.

Between 15 and 20 boys are expected to enroll there in September, and they will be bused to the local high school in Tecumseh buses.

Supt. James McDowell says the new students will pay tuition, or, if they are wards of the court, additional state aid from Lansing will be remitted to the local schools in lieu of tuition.

According to Bro. Edward, Boysville has no plans or intentions of phasing out the rest of their grades, eight, nine and 10. Approximately 160 boys will be attending school there this fall.

Boysville has operated four grades since its founding in Macon in 1948. Bro. Robert Hormann is head of the institution there.

Its decision to send students into the Tecumseh Public Schools was the second by a local parochial school. St. Elizabeth has dropped grades seven and eight and will enroll these youngsters into the public school system in September.

St. Elizabeth's decision to phase out the two grades, however, was based on lack of necessary funds.

VOICE of THE HERALD

Box Company Knows

We regret, and feel that many others feel the same way, that Council failed to waive, alter or relax a city zoning ordinance which prohibits City Manager Cal Zorn from giving Tecumseh Corrugated Box a requested building permit.

We feel that such a permit was desirable, not only for the company but for the community. The Box company is a tremendous asset to the community, the officials and employees there are friends and neighbors.

Whether our city officials can come to an agreement or settlement with the company, only time will tell. If not, time will probably tell whether poor judgement was exercised.

A couple Councilmen appeared favorable in helping Tecumseh Box. A couple seemed reluctant in making any concessions which would appear to be in opposition to the ordinance. One official, and perhaps he was right, suggested that they wait until there's a response from the company in regards to the city manager's letter.

If this were a case of a company building or expanding on a vacant piece of land, a factor which is entirely different from the present situation, there would be no doubt that the city would be perfectly right in abiding by the zoning ordinance.

However, this is not the case. This situation entails an old industrial plant that was vacant at the time Tecumseh Box was founded here. It was the only industrial plant available.

Such a plant, not built to specifications for Tecumseh Box, and certainly one constructed long before zoning ordinances were in effect, inevitably would have to be remodeled or expanded for industrial needs.

Since the Box Company's plans for expansion will not interfere with S. Evans St., the traffic thereon, or interfere with others in the neighborhood, why is it terribly wrong to relax the ordinance and allow the company to expand as needs require?

It's a simple case of cooperating by local government and local industry, and in this situation, we feel that the company is fully aware of its needs and plant requirements — not the city — and that permission should be granted for the first expansion as requested.

Board Rejects Land Transfer

A request to transfer approximately 50 acres from the Clinton School District into the Tecumseh district was rejected by the Lenawee County Board of Education Monday evening.

Supt. James McDowell says the reason for turning the request down was because William Powell, owner of the property, did not attend the meeting. The school official said it was not necessary, however, for Mr. Powell, local real estate broker to attend the meeting.

Tuesday, Mr. Powell said he would attend next month's session, and it is understood one or two other property owners just north of Tecumseh also will attend September's meeting and seek a transfer to the Tecumseh district.

Ned Swift, Sutton Rd. resident, asked the Board why it transferred the Martaloch property recently and did not transfer Powell's? Answers were reportedly vague and evasive.

Supt. Richard Wegner and Don Geiger of Clinton attended the meeting and opposed the transfer of Powell's land, located just north of Meyers Airport.

A request to transfer the property of Harley G. and Marion L. Harris from the Tecumseh district to Britton was tabled.

Bids Are Let for $85,000

Low bids, amounting to about $85,000, were approved by Council Monday evening for the construction of a new well and water lines, just north of Tecumseh.

Contracts were offered to Dunbar Drilling of Swanton, OH.; Bales Trucking, Adrian and Ellies & Ford Mfg., Detroit.

John Seeley, city engineer from Ann Arbor, explained the bids to the Councilmen, and, along with City Manager Cal Zorn, recommended the acceptance of the low bids.

Mr. Seeley said work would start almost immediately and tests could be performed on the new well about two weeks later. He said an eight-inch test well has indicated a good source of water.

The water main will extend from the site just north of the new Friends Church, across the church property and land owned by the Russell Cheevers to a hookup point at Red Mill Dr. and N. Evans St.

ARTS

on display at Clinton Arts Center

By JACKIE KOCH
jackie@tecumsehherald.com

Photos by Jackie Koch: A quilt display at the Clinton Arts Center showcases intricately pieced quilt art in the gallery, as well as a prayer quilt project by women from the Clinton United Church of Christ in the upper level mezzanine.

A quilt display now at the Clinton Arts Center (CAC) in Oak Openings in downtown Clinton showcases intricately pieced quilt art in the gallery, as well as a prayer quilt project in the upper level mezzanine begun in 2017 by women from the Clinton United Church of Christ (CUCC).

The quilts in the gallery include elaborate designs by Mary VanAlstine, who lives in Ann Arbor and is a member of a group of quilters from all over Michigan who have been together a long time. "They'll get together regularly and share the projects that they're working on, and sew together," said Jane White, the CAC's ceramics studio manager.

Other pieces in the gallery were created by Diane Lamb, Gaye Lyles, and Penny McLaren. A reception will be held Sunday, Aug. 11 from 2-4 p.m., where some of the women who created the quilts will be available to speak to attendees. The display will be up through the end of September.

According to White, the women of the CUCC coordinate the prayer quilt program, which involves teenagers who volunteer their time, receive sewing lessons, and help put the quilts together. "It's a big group effort," she said.

Marge Allen, Betty Oesterling, and Gloria Greenleaf of the church began the prayer quilt project, which has produced 175 quilts in the past two years. The quilts are made using donated fabric as well as batting purchased with donations, and the purpose is to give these comforting creations to those in need of special prayers and love. So far there have been 92 recipients of CUCC prayer quilts in Clinton, across the state, throughout the nation and around the world. Each quilt is blessed during church worship services.

The quilts are photographed upon completion and the photographs are placed in a book that records each quilt and its recipient.

Those interested in contributing to the prayer quilt project, or anyone who knows of someone in need of a prayer quilt, may contact the church office at 456.4363.

In addition to the quilts, a display of large radio-controlled airplanes created by retired Michigan pilot Don Daws hangs on the south side of the mezzanine.

Oak Openings is open 11 a.m.-9 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday, 11 a.m.-10 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and occasional Sundays. The building and Twelve Restaurant will open at 11 a.m. on August 11.
