Police Chief Troy Stern is pictured on September 14, 2010 after his promotion.

A Farewell Salute

'Family was always his number one priority'

By MARY KAY McPARTLIN
marykay@tecumsehherald.com

When former Tecumseh Police Chief Troy Stern died on August 28, he left behind his family – his wife Nicole; his children Dylan, Baylee, Savannah and Gage; his father Jerome; his mother Linda; his brother Scott. With his years of service to the City of Tecumseh, Stern's death has also affected his brothers and sisters in blue at the Tecumseh Police Department where he worked for 24 years, the last eight and a half years as the police chief.

Those who worked for Stern and were assisted by his expertise, remember a man who thought only of taking care of others. This disregard for himself continued all through his battle with cancer.

"Chief Stern fought like a champion," said Tecumseh Police Chief Brett Coker. "He never complained or felt sorry for himself. He was an outstanding leader of this department. He cared deeply for his officers and the City of Tecumseh. So much so that even when his priority should have been on his health, he was at work making certain that everything was in order and preparing his staff for his absences due to chemotherapy treatments and then later, for his eventual retirement."

Coker was mentored by Stern, first as acting police chief and later as police chief when Stern retired from the position in May. "When Troy first started his treatments, which made him very sick, he had to miss a Lenawee County Chief's Association meeting and asked me to attend in his place," Coker said. "He arranged for Clinton's police chief to pick me up and take me to the meeting because Troy didn't want me to feel uncomfortable walking into the meeting alone.

"The day of the meeting, I walk in and there's Troy. He was obviously, visibly, very sick. I sat down next to him and asked why he was there, and he said, 'I wanted to make sure that you were okay, and I wanted to personally and properly introduce you to everyone.' That was Troy."

Stern had a stellar reputation in the Lenawee County law enforcement community. "I have known and worked with Troy for over twenty years," said retired Clinton Police Chief Mike Randolph. "He was a fantastic police officer and a terrific chief. Troy and I spoke weekly with each other about work-related issues and built a great friendship. He was well-respected in the law enforcement community and will truly be missed."

Stern's interactions with those who work for the city was always supportive. Going beyond what was expected was something Stern did on a regular basis, living out daily "To protect and to serve" when it came to the community.

"Troy becoming police chief was one of my proudest moments as mayor," said former mayor of Tecumseh Harvey Schmidt. "I was proud that he rose to the top in our selection process and not because he was already a member of our police force, but because he was truly the most qualified for the position. Troy proved to be a consummate professional and his commitment to

Gilmore to lead parks and rec department as new director

By JIM LINCOLN
jim@tecumsehherald.com

Sarah Gilmore was sitting with members of her family at Tuesday night's Tecumseh City Council meeting when councilmembers voted unanimously to confirm her appointment as the city's next director of the parks and recreation department. She succeeds Shelley Lim who stepped down from the position in July.

Gilmore has been a familiar face at the department since 2015 working part-time alongside Lim writing grants, managing projects and program registrations, and supervising other part-time and seasonal staff, according to a summary prepared by City Manager Dan Swallow.

A graduate of the University of Michigan, Gilmore received a B.A. degree in environment with a concentration in environmental education. She gained experience in creating educational programs at the Leslie Science & Nature Center in Ann Arbor and Michigan Avian Experience in Brooklyn, in addition to her work here at the parks and recreation department.

Swallow noted that Gilmore has been a volunteer at the Stubnitz Environmental Center in Adrian and served on the Lenawee Intermediate School District's Natural Resources Advisory Board.

Her starting annual salary of $55,000 will be increased five percent to $57,750 beginning December 1, 2019, following a three-month performance review.

In other news from the September 3 council meeting:

- Council approved two

resolutions to adopt and implement a Local Pavement Warranty Program through the Michigan Department of Transportation. The program creates a format that local jurisdictions use for asphalt and concrete paving projects of $2 million or more for public roads and streets. It also standardizes the method of applying pavement warranties on local projects. The program helps provide "a consistent, quantifiable and transparent program that pavement contractors can recognize and implement," Swallow said. September 18 was the deadline for the city to adopt the program.

- The first of two readings was approved to amend Ordinance 08-19 Chapter 6 that requires local bars, restaurants and other establishments to license amusement devices, such as pool tables, pinball and video game machines, among others, at a cost of $25 per device. The amendment will effectively repeal the licensing requirement.

- Council approved the purchase of a John Deere 1550 TerrainCut Mower from Bader & Sons with a cost of $19,529 for the Department of Public Works.

TPS board shortens terms to four years

By JACKIE KOCH
jackie@tecumsehherald.com

The board of education of Tecumseh Public Schools (TPS) voted to shorten the length of board seat terms to four years Monday, Aug. 26, as well as approving the purchase of chromebooks, accepting a large donation for the high school sculpture garden, and hearing updates from School Resource Officer Chad Rodgers and Facilities Director Mike Smith.

The change in term length was initiated because board members thought more community members might be interested in serving on the board if the commitment was for four years instead of six, according to Board President Tim Simpson.

According to subsection 8 of section 11a of Michigan's Revised School Code, members of school boards may serve four or six years, as provided by the district's bylaws. Because the TPS school board voted to change the bylaws to reflect the reduced term length, any new members

By Jackie Koch

I've always thought of September as the time to start something new. This outlook came from so many childhood years of anticipating the start of the school year, which included shopping for school clothes, seeing what outfits my mother sewed for me, buying school supplies, and looking forward to (or dreading) a different teacher in my new grade.

I would peruse the list of students in my new class and rejoice when I saw a friend's name, or feel disappointment when I didn't. Wearing my new plaid jumper, I would walk shyly into my classroom and look around to take in the atmosphere of the room and try to determine which of the other children would be easy to talk to, and which I might want to avoid. It was a minefield of social anxiety mixed with the thrill of new experiences and the challenge of learning.

Even now I feel excitement when autumn rolls around. Technically the season doesn't start until the autumnal equinox at 3:50 a.m. September 23, but most people look at the start of school as the beginning of fall, and who am I to argue with that? Even the Old Farmer's Almanac says, according to the meteorological definition of seasons based on temperature cycles and the Gregorian calendar, that the first day of fall is September 1.

The beginning of September has been a milestone in my life since 1996, when on that Labor Day weekend I started my role as a single parent with one son in first grade and the other in preschool. It was traumatic and began a stressful period of my life, but I did what I had to do and I did it the best I knew how at the time. And it got better as time went on.

Psychologists know that the body holds memories of trauma and reacts even years later, especially when something triggers a memory of the stress, consciously or subconsciously. For 22 years I struggled on Labor Day weekend, not understanding why I was so emotional until I once again realized the holiday's significance to me.

This year, with no plans for the weekend and no one to see, I let myself do nothing. It wasn't a case of inertia that came from sadness or a sense of being stuck, it was the gift of just being and choosing whatever I wanted to do at the time. Without pushing myself to accomplish chores around the house, without filling my time with busywork, I felt free. It was lovely.

I never even thought about the Labor Day weekend curse of sadness and grief until late Monday, when I reflected on what an enjoyable weekend I'd had. The curse was gone, finally released due to time and the work I've done to forgive myself and others for human failings.

What I have been thinking about ever since is how many others are out there in the world, in my community, in my neighborhood, whose healing from whatever they've gone through is taking just as long or longer than mine did. Some people never heal. And so that is why we must hold space for people to be imperfect and give them the benefit of the doubt, I believe.

I'm not a religious person, though God knows I've tried. I've attended Baptist, United Methodist, Unity and Unitarian Universalist churches. I completed religious education for adults and was baptized in the Catholic Church when I was in my 40s, then helped lead an adult class. For a while I was interested in Judaism. I've studied the belief system of Buddhism, which seems the closest to what fits me. I doubt I'll ever be a joiner, but I've learned an awful lot from this variety of teachings.

One thing I've learned is that you can't go wrong with kindness. Allowing ourselves a fresh start is a loving kindness most of us don't consider, since we often have repeating self-judgments swirling in our heads. Allowing others to start again without boxing them in to their past is an act of love. Setting boundaries is important, but we can set them with grace.

The term "God is love" is prevalent in many religions. I say let's remember that. Let's see each other with new eyes and start again, sharing the gift of forgiveness.

Seasons Bakery continues a childhood dream

By JACKIE KOCH
jackie@tecumsehherald.com

Baking has long been a passion for Seasons Bakery owner Erica Radtke, who grew up in Lenawee County and spent many hours creating baked goods. A fan of the Food Network, she took her first cake decorating class from the mother of a friend and fellow homeschooled student around the age of 11, where she learned how to make fondant.

"That really kind of started it for me," Radtke said. "I took a Wilton cake decorating class and I started my college years in culinary." Eventually she discovered that the culinary field was more competitive than she wanted, so she pointed herself in the direction of baking for family and friends.

After a couple of jobs working for bakeries, she decided she wanted to be her own boss and be home with her children, Jack, age two and Ben, six months. With the support of her husband, Noah, the pastor at Milan Baptist Church, she struck out on her own this year to create baked goods out of her home in Milan. "He is wonderful," she said of her husband. "He's wonderful at just helping me out around the house and with the kids to get my stuff done, and he was very encouraging and supportive when I told him I wanted to quit and go on my own."

She said she enjoys the creative aspect of baking and decorating her projects. "It's kind of therapeutic. If I have time to just sit there and focus on that, it's relaxing," she said.

Her focus has been cupcakes including specialty flavors, but she also makes cakes and recently began making decorated sugar cookies. "That's been my new love," Radtke said. "I really like to try out different cookie cutters. It's been really fun to work on." She said she listens to the needs of customers and tries to create what they need, and enjoys the challenge of coming up with special cookies or cakes.

A regular vendor at the Tecumseh Farmers Market, she will have her Seasons Bakery booth at the market Saturday, Sept. 7 from 9 a.m.-1 p.m., and said she enjoys the farmers market atmosphere. "I like seeing all the different people, and customers that probably wouldn't normally find me," said Radtke. "It's been really fun to tell them all the different projects I sell."

the city and his position was strong."

"Like so many who knew him as a fellow employee, friend or family member, Troy Stern will be missed but not forgotten," said former City Manager Kevin Welch. "I knew Troy for about 12 years, but really had a new appreciation for him while he served as the Tecumseh Police Chief and even more after he became ill. During my time as City Manager, Troy was the ultimate professional. I could say all kinds of positive things about his character as a cop and chief. But, while his health became such a sad experience for everyone, especially his family, he dealt with it as a person with great strength and courage. I had the opportunity to talk to him several times while he battled his illness. What struck me the most during these discussions was his concern for his family and not so much for what pain he faced. As I look back to the times before he was ill, his family was always his number one priority. I will always remember him in that way."

ON THE STREET

What memory do you have of elementary school?

It was a lot of fun swinging way too high on the swings, and jumping off and getting yelled at by the playground attendant. We all kept doing it because it was the most fun thing to do at recess.

— Willow Gritzmaker

The thing in gym class where you had to do chin-ups holds to get the Presidential Fitness Award. I got the award because I held it a really long time. And I cracked my tooth on the playground.

— Chloe Hackett

In my first grade year, me and my friend Zach got in a lot of trouble for taking the eraser tops and sliding them across the desk. We just kept doing it and my teacher got very, very annoyed with us.

— Parker Hovey

I was always the quiet kid, I never talked that much. On the first day of school in first grade I had this bracelet on and I was swinging it around my finger. It flew and hit the teacher, and she made me put my name on the stoplight warning sign for doing something bad.

— Grace Smith

I only went to sixth through ninth grade. I didn't go to elementary school. I was home-schooled.

— Jade Fehon

The best part was going home for lunch and eating tomato soup and watching TV.

Trade war from the farmer's perspective

Many thanks to Laurie Isley, a Palmyra soybean and corn farmer and president of the Michigan Soybean Promotion Committee, for informing the public about farmers' declining ability to be economically secure (michiganradio.org/post/wet-spring-and-ongoing-trade-war-mi-soybean-farmers-plow-ahead). As Isley pointed out in her August 22 interview, the wet weather was not the only problem farmers have had. They face a much longer-term problem, the ongoing trade war.

The soybean industry was one of the hardest hit by President Trump's trade war. Isley explained that China has shifted its soybean purchases from the U.S. to Brazil and Argentina, a move that may not be reversible. She feels that American soybean farmers will never again enjoy the full market share they once had. As she put it, "[The trade war] gives us a reputation as being unreliable, and so [China isn't] going to put all their eggs in one basket if they aren't sure that we're going to maintain our reliability as a source."

Mr. Trump says China will pay the costs of his increased tariffs, but that's not true. Most of us will feel the cost in terms of higher prices but farmers may also lose their livelihoods and farms. Alarming, the farm bankruptcy rate has gone up 13% since President Trump was elected, as reported in Michigan

Farm News on August 8 (michfb.com/MI/Farm-News/Ag-loan-delinquencies-increasing-Farm-Bankruptcy-filings-up-13/).

We should be grateful to the truth-tellers: Ms. Isley, the Soybean Promotion Committee, the Michigan Farm News, and the Michigan Agri-Business Association (https://www.freep.com/story/news/local/michigan/2019/5/13/michigan-farmers-hurt-chinese-tariffs/1187391001/).

It is time for farmers and the rest of us to preserve farming and our economy by voting for politicians who will look at the facts and listen to the concerns of farmers, consumers, and market partners.

The tariff war and other policies of the Trump administration are NOT making farming "great again."

Tecumseh: 'a remarkable partner'

By JACKIE KOCH
jackie@tecumsehherald.com

The Tecumseh community has long been part of health studies conducted by the University of Michigan, began with the Tecumseh Community Health Study that started with a 1957 canvass of all households and the collection of data for more than 30 years, and more recently, the Michigan Bone Health and Metabolism Study (MBHMS), which began in 1988 and has been re-launched thanks to a $2.2 million grant from the National Institute for Health (NIH).

Carrie Karvonen-Gutierrez, MPH, PhD, is an assistant professor of epidemiology in the University of Michigan School of Public Health. As the principal investigator for the MBHMS who took over the project after the passing of the program's founder, Dr. MaryFran Sowers, she oversees the study to learn more about women's bone strength and the prevention of age-related fractures. "I studied under Dr. Sowers for years, and it has been a great honor and privilege to be able to continue this work," Karvonen-Gutierrez said. "The women of the Michigan Bone Health Study have done so much for advancing science and women's health."

The NIH halted the funding when Sowers passed away, but the team has been working for the past six or seven years to restart it. With the new grant, they will take the original data about bone traits in women from MBHMS and use it to better understand how bone strength changes over time. "We've spent a lot of time looking at bone density, but we actually see that it's not a great predictor of fracture," said Karvonen-Gutierrez. "What we really want to know is how strong is that bone, and so we have been working with some folks in orthopedic surgery and engineering and have identified some features of the bone that can help us estimate strength."

Those working on the study have identified a trait of bone width that has shown promise in determining bone strength. Preliminary results show that women with narrow bones don't lose much bone mass. Those women actually gain bone on the outer surface during menopause, which means women with narrow bones may maintain or increase their bone strength during midlife. However, women with wide bones have shown substantial loss of bone mass but not much outer bone expansion, so women with wide bones may lose bone strength earlier and faster than women with narrow bones.

The continuation of the MBHMS, along with information from the sister study of women's health across the nation, will further the research on women's bone health as they transition through menopause. "It'll let us look over a period of 25 years about how strength might change, and then ultimately to link to outcomes like fractures," she said. The researchers are also interested in looking at how hormonal changes during menopause affect bone changes. Now in year two of a five-year program, the team is about halfway through collecting data from the women who were part of the original study.

Researchers have been contacting women who were previously part of the MBHMS to gather information through surveys, measurements and blood tests, as well as bone scans and an x-ray of the subject's dominant hand, to further understand bone strength. The original bone health research in Tecumseh studied 664 women. "It's one of the largest studies of mid-life women that have been followed for this period of time," Karvonen-Gutierrez said. "It's really quite remarkable."

Many of the women in the MBHMS were children when the original Tecumseh Community Health Study took place, so research can look at how the health of their parents might influence their health as well as following them from childhood into late adulthood.

One of the real values of the Michigan Bone Health Study is having data for 25 years on the same people, according to Karvonen-Gutierrez. "That's so incredibly powerful in research, because we're comparing within a person, that's something that few studies can do and that's really the gem and the treasure of the Michigan Bone Health Study," she said.

Once all the data is collected, the researchers will spend the rest of the five years analyzing and processing the information compared to the information from 25 years ago and will seek additional grants to continue their work. Those who take part in the study will receive information on their own health as well as data on the study.

The researchers want to contact all the study's prior participants, even if they no longer live in the area. Karvonen-Gutierrez encouraged anyone who was a participant in the MBHMS who has not been contacted in the past year to call Project Coordinator Kerry McCullough at 734.647.5068. Those with questions about the study may contact Karvonen-Gutierrez at 734.763.0571.

There will be a display about the Tecumseh Community Health Study at the Tecumseh District Library in September and October, and Karvonen-Gutierrez will give a presentation about that study and the MBHMS research at the library from 7-8 p.m. on October 3. The presentation will share how much the residents of Tecumseh have done to contribute to science and health research.

"Tecumseh as a community has just been a remarkable partner and resource, and really has contributed so very much science, both through Michigan Bone Health and Metabolism, but also through its predecessor, the Tecumseh Community Health Study," she said.

elected would serve four years, while the current members will finish out their elected terms. The amendment to the board bylaws was effective August 26.

Simpson and Board Treasurer John Benzing, who were elected to six-year terms, will retain their seats until December 31, 2024; Milton Abbott and Suzanne Moore, elected for partial terms, will serve until the end of 2022; and Michael McNamara, Board Vice President Becky Brooks, and Board Secretary Kevin Johnson, elected to partial terms, will keep their seats until December 31, 2020.

The request for proposal to purchase 400 new Lenovo 100e chromebooks was approved. The purchase will replenish the inventory of up-to-date units for student use. At a previous board meeting, Technology Director Deven Knight said the incoming seventh grade students will need approximately 200 chromebooks and many of the units at Compass Learning Center need to be replaced, as well. The chromebooks were to be delivered before the start of the school year.

Smith reported that the facilities department had completed safety inspections of playgrounds, buildings and grounds. During the inspection of bleachers and stadium seating it was found that some bleacher seating in the high school gymnasium will need to be replaced. The switch will most likely be done around the Thanksgiving or Christmas holidays.

Building up the maintenance department was a concern for Smith, who said the loss of the facilities coordinator and six janitors left the department short on staff. He expressed the desire to look at the cost of outsourcing janitorial services for the district rather than having janitors as district employees. "Right now I'm trying to do something to rebuild the department, to take a look at it," he said. "As part of this I'd like to go outside and see what the competitive bid situation would look like compared to what we're doing."

Smith said he has also been working on a building efficiencies company to look at solar energy and other ways to make the district's building more efficient.

Rodgers reported that he attended a conference on policies and practices for school resource officers earlier in the summer, and said he has been working on the emergency operations plan for the district. One aspect of the plan is the reunification points to connect students to their parents or primary caregivers in case of school evacuation, which requires a contract between the entities involved. Fabricare has agreed to be the location for East STEAM Center; Bader & Sons will be the reunification point for the high school, along with the possibility of TLC Community Credit Union; and he said he was waiting to hear from St. Elizabeth Catholic Church on the possibility of being a reunification point for West STEAM Center. The reunification point for North Early Learning Center is Tecumseh Park (The Pit), and he is still working on a location for South Early Learning Center.

"One thing I did take away from the conference is a threat assessment," Rodgers said. "So anytime any of the schools get a threat, we deal with it, but there's really no systematic approach to it, documentable, that remains with the student disciplinary file." He said if a system of documentation is enacted, the student's threat history would legally be transferable to any other district the student transferred to. "So we're working on coming up with a threat assessment that has a central reporting, probably to the central office," he said. "That way everybody has an idea of what's going on in each building."

The board approved the 2019-2020 building handbooks and athletic code and accepted an anonymous donation of $5,000 for the high school sculpture garden.

The next meeting of the TPS Board of Education will be at 7 p.m. Monday, Sept. 9 at the board office annex.

Adrian resident Jay Brant, a Beltone hearing care practitioner at the advanced master level, will see clients in Tecumseh's new office on Tuesdays and Fridays.

New Beltone office delivers sound advice

By JACKIE KOCH
jackie@tecumsehherald.com

A new Beltone office on Chicago Boulevard offers area residents the chance to keep tabs on the health of their hearing, and Jay Brant is prepared to help those concerned about their ability to decipher sounds.

Brant is a hearing care practitioner at the advanced master level. Born to parents who both worked for Beltone, a company that performs hearing tests and fits hearing devices, he was a natural when he decided to follow in their footsteps.

He has been employed by the company for 36 years, starting in the Detroit area, he moved to Adrian in December 1992 and worked in the Monroe office for four years until the manager of the Adrian store retired and he took over that location. Now he will split his time between Adrian and the new Beltone Tecumseh, which opened Tuesday, Sept. 3 at 402 E. Chicago Blvd., Suite B.

The Tecumseh location was opened as a satellite office for Lenawee County and will see clients Tuesday and Friday, while the Adrian office will accept clients Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. Brant said the reasoning was that many people in this portion of the county may not go to Adrian and might drive to Saline or Ann Arbor, so the new office will provide hearing services closer to home.

Beltone's hearing care practitioners are well-trained. "We have to be state-licensed, so you have to pass an exam. We do basically the same kinds of things that people would find going to an audiologist, we just don't charge anything for it," he said about Beltone's free hearing tests that include a comprehensive hearing assessment and consultation with a hearing care professional.

Hearing care practitioners don't diagnose medical problems with the ear, but they do screen for such issues. "There are eight criteria we look for," said Brant. "If any one of those questions come up with a yes answer, then we send you to an ear, nose and throat doctor or your physician to get that taken care of."

The majority of people who come in for a hearing assessment are found to have hearing loss due to nerve damage, which can be correctable to different degrees by hearing aids if the damage has been caught in time. "More often than not they don't bring people back to normal and natural hearing because people tend to let it go for too long before they get the correction. As nerve endings deteriorate it becomes more difficult to understand what's being said. What hearing aids do is they keep the nerve endings that you do have active," he said. "Unfortunately, letting it go too long, you can't reach some of those nerve endings. They'll actually atrophy."

There are about 40,000 nerve endings in each ear that require sound in order to move and function. As people age their nerve endings get older and weaker, and injury due to noise over a lifetime, as well as side effects of heart, blood pressure and diabetes medication, take their toll. Waiting to correct hearing loss can mean less ability to regain hearing levels. "If you catch the distortion before it becomes permanent, your results with hearing aids are much better than if you let it go," Brant said.

He said he sees people younger and younger now with hearing loss, and he recommends a baseline hearing screening by the age of 40 so later testing can show if there is a decline in the ability to hear.

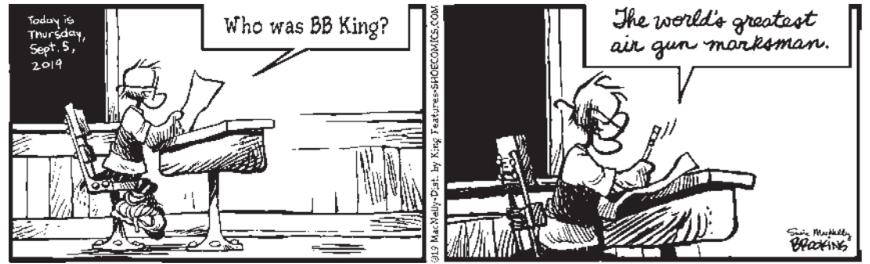

If it is determined that a person needs the assistance of hearing aids, the cost of devices starts at the most simple and advances to models that can be connected to a smartphone app, he said. The decision of which type to purchase depends on the client's needs, hearing ability, lifestyle and budget.

According to Brant, untreated hearing loss can increase an individual's risk of Alzheimer's Disease, dementia, depression and anxiety. He said a study by the Cleveland Clinic showed that it also triples the risk of falling because the cognitive ability of the brain has to compensate for impaired hearing and causes a deficiency in a person's sense of balance. Reduced hearing can also lead to feelings of social isolation, which can contribute to mental decline.

Brant said a typical test can take anywhere from one-and-a-half to two hours, and in many cases in-the-ear hearing aids can be fitted the same day, while other models are custom-made. "There's no obligation for the testing," he said. "A lot of people are afraid to come in. I'm the least hard-sell person. You come in, I give you the information."

Beltone Tecumseh is open Tuesday 9 a.m.-7 p.m. and Friday 9 a.m.-5 p.m. For more information or to make an appointment, call the Adrian office at 734.282.7991.

Local Youth, 18, Trapped in Mishap, Avoids Major Injury

John Bryan, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bryan, 310 W. Shawnee St., luckily escaped serious injury Friday afternoon in a tractor accident behind Tecumseh Saw Shop on N. Evans St.

John and Bruce DesErnia were hauling debris and stone for the Tecumseh schools when the mishap occurred.

The injured youth had backed the tractor and a small trailer to the edge of a 10-foot embankment behind the shop when the tractor and trailer slipped over the edge and tumbled down toward Evans Creek.

John was on and operating the tractor at the time and attempted to jump off. He missed and became entangled with the tractor sliding down the slope.

Bruce summoned help and State Police, Tecumseh police and firemen responded. John was trapped beneath the tractor with one wheel resting on his abdomen.

A wrecker from Ed's Standard pulled the tractor off of him as a State Police officer steadied the vehicle from tottering over onto the youth.

Sheriff's ambulance rushed him to Herrick Hospital where preliminary examination showed only bumps and bruises, and no broken bones. He was held until Monday for observation, and was back working for the schools on Tuesday.

School Enrollment Projected Up

Unless dropouts top new enrollees, the Tecumseh schools will set a record enrollment for 1969-70.

Officials had anticipated an enrollment of approximately 3,400, but the actual figure could well be at least 50 over this mark.

Last year, for example, enrollment the first week at the Junior High was 515. This year, officials are expecting approximately 580, an increase of 65. Three morning music classes already have been scheduled for the basement of the Tecumseh Public Library, just across the street from the Junior High building.

Over 300 are expected in the seventh grade alone.

High School officials are still not certain of attendance there as many did not show up for the regular enrollment. However, some of these youngsters are known to be out of town and are expected to enroll on their return.

Last year during the first week, THS had 1,183. This figure could be equaled, perhaps surpassed if most of those who failed to register Wednesday turn up later this week or next Monday.

The elementary sections are running about as expected and should settle on the approximate figure of 1,775. Many newcomers, however, have enrolled and there are some children who were expected Wednesday morning but did not show.

A problem for school officials, according to Supt. James McDowell, could be the kindergarten. There are eight sections of kindergarten and the first attendance figures show 281 coming to school this Thursday.

This would make some sections over 34, a maximum number and not considered desirable for youngsters attending their first year in school. Teachers with grades of more than 34 pupils are paid in addition to their regular salary, according to the master contract. More definite enrollment figures will be available in about a week. And the official enrollment for the schools will be set on Sept. 26, the fourth Friday in September.

Work started on Tecumseh's sewer, Aug. 19. "Rubber" Knapp, star twirler of a Southern Michigan League, has signed for a tryout with the Detroit Tigers.

Wilson Site Is Annexed

Annexation of the Harvey Wilson property, approximately 650 feet on W. Chicago Blvd., and about 600 feet deep, was approved by Council Tuesday evening.

The annexation also includes an 88-foot strip behind Joe's Market, a parcel which borders property recently annexed and approved for apartments.

In Council's action, officials approved annexing the front or northern part for commercial usage and the south section for RA01 or residential.

According to City Manager Cal Zorn, Mr. Wilson, former auto dealer, plans to construct a new laundromat next to Les Dallas Dodge-Rambler agency.

Mr. Wilson was a long-time car dealer and recently sold his remaining interests in the agency to Mr. Dallas.

Only section in the immediate area there not in the city is the former Tecumseh Lumber Co., property now occupied by Tecumseh Plywood, and owned by Howard Truesdale.

Council acted on the annexation after learning that the Tecumseh Board had released the property at its August meeting.

Pinckney too much for Indians in football opener

By JEFF STEERS
Special Writer

Tecumseh High School Head Football Coach Greg Dolson said the Indians were in position to make defensive plays in the opening game against Pinckney.

But it all came down to execution.

The Indians lost 34-6 to the Pirates on the road last Friday to start the 2019 season. Tecumseh is 0-1 overall and the same in the SEC White division.

The Indians struggled to make tackles on the defensive side of the football and couldn't get anything going offensively.

"We have two periods of tackling drills every day in practice," Dolson said. "We try to stress wrapping up and grabbing something on the ball carrier."

The Indians did neither on Pinckney's first touchdown carrier Sal Patierno appeared to be stopped at the line of scrimmage by a host of Indians. He somehow broke free and galloped 52 yards for a score with just over two minutes remaining in the first quarter.

A 32-yard field goal by Pinckney and another touchdown gave the Pirates a 17-0 lead with under five minutes remaining in the first half.

Tecumseh would fight back, as J.J. Arbini recovered a fumble by Pinckney on the 29 yard line. Four plays later Tecumseh quarterback Jack Burnett burst through the middle of the line for a 21-yard touchdown run.

The extra point was missed, and Tecumseh trailed 17-6 at halftime.

But that would be all the highlights for the Indians. They were held to 12 offensive plays — non punts — in the second half.

Pinckney would score two touchdowns and kick another field goal in the second half.

The Pirates finished with 419 offensive yards, while Tecumseh could only muster 112.

Tecumseh volleyball second at own invitational

By JEFF STEERS
Special Writer

The Tecumseh High School varsity volleyball team used some home cooking to play well on Saturday as they hosted the Tecumseh Volleyball Invitational.

Tecumseh finished 4-1-1 on the day against six other opponents to take second place.

"We love to play at home in front of our fans," THS Coach Kelsey Lindquist said. "I am so proud of how well the girls played today."

The tournament fell on a holiday weekend, but Tecumseh went ahead with the contest.

"School starts a week later, so it pushed everything back," Lindquist said. "We normally get 12 teams for the invitational."

Seven teams competed with a four-team bracket and a three-team bracket. Schools in the four-team bracket played each team in two-set matches, while the three-team bracket played three-game matches. In the end, all seven teams had played six games to set up a seven-team single-elimination format.

Tecumseh was 2-1-1 in pool play, defeating Dundee and Erie Mason. The Lady Indians split with North Farmington.

Tecumseh defeated Dundee, 25-9 and 25-14 in the opening round of the playoffs. It took three games to defeat Dundee in the semifinal, 25-19, 25-27, and 15-9.

Tecumseh lost to county rivals Onsted 25-15 and 25-19 in the finals.

Morgan Dillon led Tecumseh with 28 kills on the day. Lyndsey Benschoter recorded 84 assists and a team-high 13 aces. Rachel Haft finished the day with 14 kills and eight blocks and Eva Alcock finished with 16 kills. Defensively, Bailee Ford had 31 digs and Kylah Abbott finished with 21 digs for Tecumseh.

Britton Deerfield football defeats Addison in season opener

The Britton Deerfield (BD) varsity football team hosted Addison Thursday, Aug. 29 for the first game of the regular season, and defeated the Panthers 28-16.

The Patriots scored a touchdown in the first quarter when Nico Johnson completed a pass to Jacob Delmotte for 25 yards, and BD added two more points on a run conversion. In the second quarter, Addison's Nathan Rodlund scored a touchdown and two points from a conversion run, leveling the score. BD's Nick Thomas ran for four yards and scored another touchdown, bringing the score to 14-8 for BD, but a two-point conversion pass by Johnson to Cole Shiels was incomplete.

Shiels scored a touchdown with a five-yard run and the Patriots gained another two points from a conversion pass from Johnson to Carter Fore, making the score 22-8.

No points were scored by either team in the third quarter, but in the fourth quarter Addison's Travis Whitaker ran for 33 yards and scored a touchdown and two-point conversion run, making the score 22-16. The Patriots' upped their score to 28 when Johnson ran for 54 yards and scored another touchdown for BD, winning the game.

BD had nine completed passes out of 14 attempts with an average of 12.3 yards, while Addison completed five of 10 attempts with an average 7.2 yards. Leading tacklers for BD were Gavin Cousino with 10.5, Fore with nine and Johnson with 7.

The Patriots' next game will be played at home against Erie-Mason Friday, Sept. 6 at 7 p.m.

Regarding the stop signs, the request was made to have an assessment done for the quality of stop signs within city limits as well as the visibility of signs hidden by overgrown trees, etc. Regarding the flashing lights, a request was made for possible signage referencing that cross-traffic does not stop. Council response was to have City Manager Swallow look into these areas further to see what can be done. The additional comment from Council was that any sign posted on the Boulevard (or M-50) is the responsibility of MDOT and any requests would need to be directed to them.
