Six candidates vie for TPS superintendent

By JIM LINCOLN
jim@tecumsehherald.com

The long-awaited appointment to fill the top administrator post at Tecumseh Public Schools may be closer at hand as school board members prepare to interview six candidates for superintendent next week at two public meetings on Thursday and Friday, Sept. 19-20. Three one-hour interviews will be held each day in the cafeteria at Tecumseh High School with all candidates receiving the same list of 17 questions. There will be a 10 to 15 minute break between interviews, which begins at 5 p.m. on both days.

The six candidates are, in order of their scheduled appearance:

- Richard W. Hilderley, Supt. of Bronson Community Schools in Bronson, Mich.
- Benjamin Williams, Supt. of Taylor School District in Taylor, Mich.

- Scott Leach, Supt. of Vandercook Lake Public Schools, Jackson, Mich.
- James A. Baker, Assistant Supt. of Human Resources, Lakeview School District, Battle Creek, Mich.
- Sean R. McNatt, Supt. of Lincoln Consolidated, Ypsilanti
- Wayne Roedel, Supt. of Fowlerville Community Schools, Fowlerville, Mich.

The Michigan Association of School Boards (MASB) is guiding the school board in its search for a superintendent. The MASB and its deputy director Donna Oser were hired in June to conduct a survey of school district stakeholders, including face-to-face sessions and an online survey regarding the district and criteria for a new superintendent. Responses were also received from school staff.

At the August 12 school board meeting, Oser reported that there were 235 recorded responses. Regarding staff responses, Oser said, "There's a significant divide in your staff as far as how they feel about what's going on here. There's no doubt about that. But regardless of which side they're on in things, they do feel like the district really is student-focused and that teachers and administrators here really are keeping the best interests of students at heart when they're leading, implementing, making decisions."

She also pointed out that there is a greater proportion of staff concerned about board decision-making than there is with non-staff. "This change, while it had its own repercussions in the community, had serious and deep repercussions on staff and staff teams themselves," she said.

"I think that has very serious implications for the selection criteria, specifically, because whoever your next superintendent is, they darn sure better be a uniter, because you can't afford any more dividers."

Congressman Tim Walberg speaks at the AJ Smith Recreation Center on Sept. 5.

Congressman meets with constituents at rec center

Critics repeatedly interrupt Walberg, disrupt meeting

By JACKIE KOCH
jackie@tecumsehherald.com

A coffee hour event with U.S. Representative Tim Walberg (R) held at the AJ Smith Recreation Center on Thursday, Sept. 5, began with Walberg greeting the crowd of about 50 people.

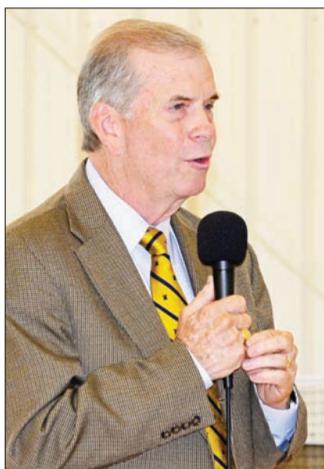

He said he hoped to work on the United States-Mexico-Canada Agreement (USTR) when returning from August recess, stating it would have major impact on key industries in Michigan's 7th District as well as agriculture and manufacturing in districts across the nation. The USTR would take the place of NAFTA "and put us in a much better situation in our trading relationship with Mexico and Canada," he said.

"This week the Judiciary Committee went back in the House to start talks on some means by which to deal with gun violence," he said. "We'll see what they will have developed when we get back." He said the administration has some ideas and the Senate has said if the President puts forth a plan they're willing to take a look at it.

Walberg said the gun issue concerns everyone in the country, "But to do the right thing is the most important. To do the thing that works is the most important, and not just do something based on emotions or feelings," he said.

Audience members submitted their questions on cards, and Tecumseh Public Schools Interim Superintendent Greg Lewis read the questions.

The first inquiry was a theme submitted by several in attendance, and asked what Walberg plans to do to curb the spread of gun violence and mass shootings in the country. "Last year we had the opportunity to send to President

Congressman Tim Walberg speaks to the public during a coffee hour Thursday at the AJ Smith Recreation Center.

Trump the Fix NICS Bill that took the instant background check and make it more workable, rolled in other background areas that oftentimes aren't easily checked, and put them in the Fix NICS. That was passed and signed into law," he said. NICS is the National Instant Criminal Background Check System. He mentioned funds given to school districts for gun violence prevention and school safety, including door locks, communication systems, and possibly metal detectors as the school determines is necessary.

He said a mental health component was added to the 21st Century Cures Act. That act was signed into law on December 13, 2016, designed to help accelerate medical product development and bring new innovations and advances to patients who need them faster and more efficiently, according to the U.S. Food & Drug Administration. "Mental health dollars, counseling training dollars that go toward that issue, as well," said Walberg regarding the gun violence question. "We're willing to look at other issues."

He also mentioned a red flag law, which would permit police or family members to

'Virtual Academy' poised to lead county in online learning via TPS

By JIM LINCOLN
jim@tecumsehherald.com

An overview of the Tecumseh Virtual Academy (TVA) was presented to the Tecumseh School Board on Monday by lead instructor Greg Dolson and counselor/advisor Jen Morgan.

The TVA offers students the option of taking courses online at home, in a class or a TVA lab, providing options and flexibility for grades K-12.

"Our virtual program provides learners with a vast list of course options, allowing them the flexibility to select courses that align with their educational pathway to customize their learning experience," said Dolson during a PowerPoint presentation.

Currently, over 300 students are enrolled in TVA, including full time, dual enrolled and middle college students. "We are excited this year because we can offer flexible assignments," Dolson said.

Morgan discussed the use of new software, Edmentum, being used this year. Over 300 courses are offered through the software for core classes, AP courses, foreign languages, CTE courses, college and career readiness courses and elective classes.

"We have had positive feedback from students and teachers," said Morgan, who said courses can be customized for the student using flex assignments, a "cool feature," she said. "Flex assignments allow teachers to create a class and push out curriculum to support students in their classrooms."

The software gives teachers an understanding of what level the student is operating and how to fill any learning gaps.

MobyMax is another program used by TVA for grades K-5. Similar to Edmentum, it uses diagnostic tests to find learning gaps and creates a curriculum based on data from the tests. The MobyMax curriculum is aligned with the state of Michigan education standards offering courses in math, reading, language, writing, science and social studies.

Currently, the staff cost for the TVA program is approximately $206,430 for two full time teachers, a counselor, 21 assistants and one secretary. Grant funds cover $81,000 of the cost, according to Dolson.

Software and licensing is an additional $12,000.

"We can do a better job at attracting new students to Tecumseh," said Dolson. Most of the students that enroll in TVA have learned about it through word-of-mouth, he said.

A goal for the program is to support adult education. "We see this as a brand new market in terms of supporting education in our community," Dolson said in the PowerPoint.

Board member Mike McNamara asked Dolson if he was asking for board action at Monday's meeting.

Dolson said no. "We are putting this on your radar and will come back with a plan of action. We want to be the school of choice in Lenawee County for online students."

Imagine That

By Mary Kay McPartlin

Yesterday was the 18th anniversary of the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center, the Pentagon and the crash of Flight 93 in Pennsylvania that left almost 3,000 people dead. I remember the day like it was yesterday — a beautiful fall day with a sky of the deepest blue.

I turned on Sesame Street for Morgan and saw the news bulletin about the first plane flying into the World Trade Center. It was such a weird thing that I went into the other room to check what was happening on our other television. As I turned on the TV, I witnessed the second plane flying into the World Trade Center.

Remember how we didn't know anything about what was going on? It took forever to understand it was an attack on American soil, and the wait for information was excruciating.

That day led to many days of mixed emotions for me. Horror at the catastrophic losses in New York, Washington, D.C., and Pennsylvania.

Joy at the way so many Americans selflessly thought of how to help those most in need in the aftermath of horror. Frustration at the hatred of some against people who were American but "looked" like the terrorists.

Still, to this day, I find it truly unbelievable that people went to work at the World Trade Center and the Pentagon and got on the airplanes that day, never to see their families again. People visited the World Trade Center and got on board flights not knowing they would be gone before noon.

First responders went to work and heroically entered buildings that were on fire without any hesitation about the danger they faced. In the midst of total chaos, they did their job to help people afraid and disoriented then perished alongside those they tried to save.

Remembering that day, what happened, is a hard task. It is painful for some of us and excruciating for those who lost someone close to them so unexpectedly.

Spending too much time immersed in the past can stir up emotions that lead us down a negative path. So it is very important for all of us to hold on to hope and allow love to guide us through difficult memories.

Remembering that day and the bravery and fortitude of so many people is necessary for those who forget. This summer's legislative hearings found lawmakers implored to extend health benefits to those who worked at ground zero.

CBS News reported on June 11, "Congress passed the James Zadroga 9/11 Health and Compensation Act in 2010, over opposition from some Republicans who balked at its $7 billion price tag. The act was reauthorized in 2015 for 90 years. But a portion of the law — the Victim Compensation Fund — was only funded for five years, through the end of 2020."

The 9/11 Victim Compensation Fund passed in the Senate on July 23 and provides permanent medical care to those affected by the toxic environment of ground zero. The fund is guaranteed for 70 years.

According to The New York Times, the number of claims has already surpassed 22,000. Many first responders are dying slow and painful deaths from cancer and other illnesses after exposure to over 2,500 toxic materials, including glass, lead and mercury, reports the Never Forget Project.

On 9/11, 343 New York City firefighters died. Since then 111 firefighters have died. The Never Forget Project also reports 2,100 firefighters and EMS personnel have retired due to medical issues attributed to 9/11.

Just like those first responders who died inside the Twin Towers, these men and women did the work the rest of us could not and provided closure to the many families missing loved ones. There was no hesitation or negotiation from them about doing this dangerous and potentially fatal work.

Luis Alvarez, a New York City police detective, testified in June. Weak and dying of cancer, he was a vision of sacrifice for senators and those watching the hearings. Alvarez died at the end of June not knowing whether the legislation would pass.

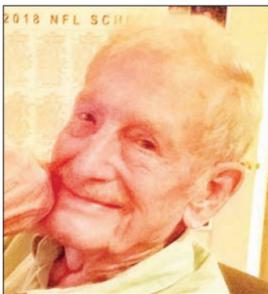

It did pass in the Senate, 97-2, on July 23. The two votes against the measure came from Sen. Rand Paul (R) of Kentucky and Sen. Mike Lee (R) of Utah.

We can't forget the past because it is part of our present. Always and forever.

Clinton's Oak Openings future uncertain

Oak Openings, the building project undertaken by Ruth Knoll and completed in June 2019 in downtown Clinton to house the Clinton Arts Center, Gallery 12, and Twelve Restaurant, may be changing hands. According to late-breaking news printed in The Clinton Local, at a public meeting of the Smith Kimball Community Center board the evening of September 10 it was reported that Knoll is seeking to donate the Oak Openings building to the Village of Clinton. If this were to happen, the former Clinton Arts Center building may become the new Clinton Community Center, and the Clinton Community School District may be interested in the current community center building for administrative offices.

The Herald's calls to request comment from Nancy Grott, treasurer of the arts center board of directors, were not returned.

Celebrating Bonsai

The Art of Bonsai at Hidden Lake Gardens • Sunday, Sept. 15

By JACKIE KOCH
jackie@tecumsehherald.com

The 7th annual installation of The Art of Bonsai at Hidden Lake Gardens will celebrate all things bonsai Sunday, Sept. 15, with a variety of activities for those interested in the tiny trees cultivated as a Japanese art form.

From 11 a.m.-4 p.m. Sunday, visitors to the gardens may peruse HLG's bonsai collection in the MacCreedy Bonsai Courtyard adjacent to the Conservatory and speak to the gardens' bonsai volunteers who will be present to give informal discussion and information on the cultivation of the trees.

According to Jack Wikle, HLG's bonsai curator, a bonsai tree being on display in the Bonsai Courtyard at HLG is a bit like being on stage as a performer in a play. "Typically, there will be 19 or 20 bonsai on display in the Courtyard. However, to maintain a public display in a botanical garden the caregiving staff will also be maintaining one or two times as many backup trees. So, the entire collection is never all on display at any given time," he said. There are between seven and 10 volunteers who care for the trees.

In addition, the Bonsai Bazaar will have vendors set up along the west edge of the main parking lot who will sell items for starting or maintaining bonsai trees. "We will have five vendors offering bonsai trees, pots, stands, tools, and plants with bonsai potential," said Samantha Howard, HLG education program coordinator. "Each of these vendors brings a great display with lots of options for everyone from beginner to advanced. Vendors travel from Ann Arbor, Monroe, and parts of Ohio. A road trip to visit all of these vendors would take over six hours, so it's great to have them all together at The Art of Bonsai."

An Inspired by Bonsai art exhibit will be on display in the Visitors Center featuring paintings, drawings, and three-dimensional art works from local artists. This special exhibit organized by the Lenawee Artists Lounge will feature pieces that represent or have been inspired by bonsai, and will be on display through September 28. An informal art reception from 1-3 p.m. will provide an opportunity for guests to meet the artists.

HLG Managing Director Paul Pfeifer said the Bonsai Show, which will be on the lower level of the Visitors Center and has a $3 entrance fee, will exhibit more than 50 miniature trees grown in containers by various individual bonsai enthusiasts from around the region, featuring a wide variety of species, sizes, and styles. "For anyone growing bonsai trees at any level of knowledge and experience, this is a great event to network with other bonsai growers and share tips and successes," Pfeifer said. "For anyone that is thinking about getting into growing a bonsai tree, there will be a plethora of knowledgeable and friendly bonsai enthusiasts sharing their interests. And for those wondering if they could grow a bonsai tree, this is the event to help answer that question, and most likely the answer will be 'yes!'"

Wikle said growing a healthy bonsai is much like keeping a pet healthy, with daily attention and meeting needs when they are recognized. Most of the care involves watering, fertilizing, pruning, pest control, periodic repotting, and winter protection.

"Some very pleasing bonsai have been 'created' in less than half an hour by using carefully selected material. At the other extreme, there are some bonsai still growing, one notable example in the Japanese Imperial Collection, well documented as having been cultivated as a bonsai for four hundred years," he said. "Unlike other art forms, bonsai are constantly changing, never finished. In many ways we are doing sculpture with living material."

According to Howard, bonsai exhibitors travel from all over to display their trees in the show and may bring up to three of their own specimens. The funds raised from the exhibit's admission fee help support Hidden Lake Garden's bonsai collection.

Other activities planned for the day include a hands-on bonsai demonstration from noon to 1:30 p.m. The Demonstrations, Answers, & Advice event will have highly experienced bonsai artists available to respond to questions and offer advice to visitors. Guests are invited to bring both trained and untrained stock for discussion. From 2:30-3:30 p.m., the Intro to Bonsai lecture will cover basic information on how to get started in growing miniature trees. Both activities are free and will be held in the Visitors Center auditorium.

Entry fee to Hidden Lake Gardens will be $5 per person on this day, which does not include admission to the Bonsai Show in the Visitor Center. Picnic areas are available on the grounds and food vendors will also be present the day of the event.

For more information on the Art of Bonsai event, contact HLG at 431.2060.

'The highlight of the day was having Jim Harvey's family with us'

The First Annual Harv's Golf Outing benefiting Tecumseh Service Club was a huge success. Jim Harvey took over Muk's Golf Outing four years ago. Even though he passed away last year, his friends wanted to keep the outing going in his honor, so this new event was started.

A special thank you to TLC Community Credit Union for once again being the lead sponsor of the tournament. Wally Pike and Eric Travis kept the music going across the course all day. Mike Sunderland prepared a delicious lunch, while Basil Boys provided salad and their famous breadsticks. Service Club volunteers donated delicious desserts and door prizes. The first-place team of Ron Frenzen, Ed Clark, Jack O'Leary and Brian Lower generously donated their winnings back, as did Kevin Phillips.

Our generous sponsors included Martin's Home Center, Carpet on Wheels, Tecumseh Tire Exchange,

Sunderland Insurance, Wally Pike and Leisa Hayes, Schmidt and Son Pharmacy, Purse Funeral Homes, Dan Dotson the Pool Man, Danley's Country House, Tecumseh Brewing Company, Embers Bar & Grill, Sparkle Cleaning-Dawn Foster, Tuckey's Big Boy, Tecumseh Insurance, Perky Pantry, Joel Larocca, Bogies Express, Glycon Corp., Victory Builders, Zach Bock for Foundation Realty, Sal's Italian Restaurant, Slusarski Excavating and Paving, Inc., F&S Landscape, Inc., Wallside Windows, Tecumseh Fitness & Dance Studio/Jazzercise, The Landing of Tecumseh, Sudzy Duz It Car Wash and Gary's Quick

Lube, Fabricare Cleaners and Coin Laundry, Dusseau Farms & Greenhouse, Monte and Jennifer Shearer, John and Chris Ruggirello, The Tecumseh Herald, Raisin Valley Golf Course and their employees, Muk's Sports Pub and their crew, and Patty Harvey.

The highlight of the day was having Jim Harvey's family there with us. Whether it was the golfers, the spectators or the volunteers, we all felt Harv was there with us in spirit.

Thank you to everyone that was a part of this great day and for your support of Tecumseh Service Club. Together, we will continue to help the less fortunate families in our community as we have since 1932.

With gratitude,

'Hoping to provide a small measure of relief'

As the school resource officer for Tecumseh Public Schools I often have contact with students who exhibit great leadership or who are either homeless or lack the basic necessities such as food and clothing. What I noticed at the end of last year and the beginning of this year is that there are an increasing number of students who are in situations where they lack the basic necessities.

Last year Basil Boys provided me with a number of gift certificates for either free bread or a pizza, to offer to students who either did something awesome or those who are in need. However, I feel that the need within the district is greater than what one business could or should shoulder. I am not looking for long-term solutions to these problems as there are other resources for that, however I am hoping to provide a small measure of relief for students who may encounter a situation in which are without food.

Tecumseh is a very generous community and I was hoping to expand this food sharing program that Basil Boys had started. I am looking for a short-term solution that is stigma free, that these kids can use to get a small bite to eat. I am asking if area restaurants would consider providing small denomination gift certificates for a small bite to eat, such as a pizza, appetizer, or if they are not a restaurant, maybe a business or individual would be willing to sponsor Chamber Bucks certificates or donate small denomination gift certificates from restaurants. Again, I am hoping to provide a little relief until a more permanent solution can be implemented.

Thanks so much and I appreciate your help. I can be reached at croddgers@tps.k12.mi.us for those who may be interested.

Darling fulfills promise to bring back Heart O' The Hills Realty

By MARY KAY McPARTLIN
marykay@tecumsehherald.com

Tom Darling's career as a realtor has been a busy one since he earned his realtor's license in 1987. Ready to be on his own, Darling opened Heart O' The Hills Realty in 1992 in a small office on U.S. 12 near Evans Lake.

"I always knew that I would be in real estate for the rest of my life," Darling said. "I wanted to own my own office. I felt the inspiration to help agents be more successful and help buyers and sellers with the highest level of service they could get anywhere. That was my goal from day one."

After just one year he moved to a bigger office on U.S. 12 at Bremen Highway and added on to the building five years later. In 2002, Darling bought a Century 21 franchise and a year later received an offer from Century 21 to join the organization as a senior director of business development.

"I was responsible for mergers and acquisitions," said Darling about his work for Century 21 selling franchises and training brokers.

His travel around the United States kept Darling busy, but he made sure his real estate license was up to date. Darling knew the day would come when he would want to return to his work as a realtor. He promised his father he would get Heart O' The Hills going again and become the number one agency in Lenawee County.

When he retired from Century 21 in January, Darling reactivated Heart O' The Hills

Realty and started his comeback in Lenawee County to make good on his promise to his father. Located on M-52 between Tecumseh and Adrian with a small office in Onsted, Darling is excited to be working in realty where he began, 32 years ago.

His goal to reach into the Adrian and Tecumseh real estate market was met when he bought Linda Rudd and Associates.

"Linda was looking at possibly slowing down and not carrying all the responsibilities of ownership," Darling said. "We just had a conversation and it developed into a situation that was meant to be. I've known her many, many years. We are just really excited about it. We have a phenomenal team. It's been the greatest move I've ever made in my real estate career. We give them everything they could ever expect and more."

Darling believes buyers have much to gain working with Heart O' The Hills Realty and the agency's focus on small details. "The first thing is they are going to get the highest most professional level of service," he said. "Everything from their first search, through writing an offer, when the offer is accepted, getting to the closing table, and the closing. We don't miss things. We stay focused and our experienced agents understand how to handle a transaction."

Sellers benefit from experience and knowledge at Heart O' The Hills Realty, according to Darling. "They can expect us to make sure we price their property correctly and provide them with the trends in the market," said Darling. "We can show them in writing how we came to the price. We spend hours and hours of time researching the market. Our agents are skilled at doing that. We make sure the sellers are aware of all the laws. They are working side by side with us right through to the closing."

Worrying about the real estate market is something Darling doesn't bother to do. "There are always sales going on even in the slowest of times," he said. "I'm 69 and I've seen four or five ups and downs. People need a home and they want to buy a home, and sellers have a home to sell. It never stops. It's a job for life. We try to create customers for life. That's our whole mantra."

petition a state court to order the temporary removal of firearms from a person who may present a danger to others or themselves, and said he would be willing to look at a red flag law that would protect law-abiding citizens' Constitutional rights to protect themselves and their homes.

When asked how he thought mental health factored into mass shooting, Walberg said he thought it did "Big time." As he continued speaking on the mental health component of mass shootings in recent history, audience members began interrupting him with outbursts of "That's not true," and "Bull (expletive)." He asked those who spoke to watch their language. "We have to address mental health," he said, stating that he wouldn't say that everyone who has a mental health problem is going to commit a mass shooting.

Another question asked Walberg why he twice voted against the Violence Against Women Act. He responded that his most recent vote was because of significant other issues in the act. As he tried to explain his answer, some in the crowd began interrupting him and protested his explanation. "You lied, you lied," a woman in the audience repeated.

Lewis read a question asking what Walberg's actions would be regarding birthright citizenship and his thoughts regarding legal versus illegal immigration. "My response to that 'legal versus illegal' is those two defined words," Walberg said. "I oppose illegal anything."

When someone in the crowd asked him about young people in the country as part of DACA, the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals immigration policy, he said, "I support the ability of people to come to the United States who want to experience the American ideal and do it the legal way."

Adrian resident Stan Goff, whom Walberg had previously warned about his language, asked if he thought it was okay to rip children from their parents' arms. Walberg responded and said no, it wasn't, after asking him to leave for speaking disruptively. A Tecumseh police officer escorted Goff from the room.

"In a town hall meeting, it is your hour," said Walberg. "It's done to make sure that all sides have the opportunity to have questions and concerns addressed. To not be allowed to do that because of disruptions that continue to take place, whether it's using foul language or just interrupting and shouting out, makes it difficult."

How to prioritize budget to spend $1 billion more on roads

By JAMES M. HOHMAN
Mackinac Center for Public Policy

Lawmakers do not need to find $1.9 billion or even $1.0 billion for roads in a single year. Road repairs are long-term projects, and the state needs to gradually spend more to ensure that roads are put back together faster than they fall apart.

Road funding is already at historic highs when adjusted for inflation, and road quality has improved in the past with lower levels of road funding. Lawmakers have also found several ways to find more road funding in the budget by using the revenues from the growth of current taxes.

But lawmakers have the power to do what they want, and if they would like to spend $1 billion more on roads, there is money in the budget. Here are a few ideas for spending reform to aid lawmakers in reprioritizing state spending.

Redirect Indian Gaming Money: The state receives payments from tribes that operate gambling operations. The money goes directly to the Michigan Economic Development Corporation. Lawmakers should redirect it to higher budget priorities. $53 million.

Transportation Economic Development Fund: The state should put this money into its formula for distributing money for road funding instead of using it on targeted projects. $44 million.

MPSERS extra payments: Michigan charges school districts for running a statewide retirement system for their employees, and it sends them extra money to cover a portion of those payments, beyond what state law requires. Lawmakers could stop sending those extra payments. $100 million.

Employee premium sharing: The state already requires its employees to pay for a portion of their health insurance. But it requires a smaller percentage than private sector averages, and it could increase those requirements to match practices in the private sector. $55 million.

Disputed school grants: The current year's budget includes grants to schools which go beyond funding for general school operations. But Gov. Gretchen Whitmer, the House and the Senate disagree over what grants should be offered. Where grants are disputed, they should be ended. $26 million.

Halve general ISD grants: The state sends money to intermediate school districts, which already get funds from their local millages. Furthermore, ISDs duplicate the services that school districts provide and are ineffective. State funding to them has grown even though student populations have declined. This money can be better spent on roads. $35 million.

Index higher education spending to inflation: State payments to universities have grown substantially since 2012, but university costs increased even more, and so did the tuition they charge state residents. Lawmakers can dial back state payments to universities but still increase spending to match inflation and the growth in their resident student enrollment. These institutions have operated with less in the past and will be able to adjust. $247 million.

Michigan Council on Arts and Cultural Affairs: State funding of arts and cultural programs is a fraction of all private and philanthropic spending in the state. State taxpayers can exit the function entirely. $9 million.

Rail operations: The state supports passenger rail services that are expensive and unnecessary. There are more affordable and efficient private ways to transport people around the country, without rails. $71 million.

AgBio Research and Cooperative Extension: These operations at Michigan State University provide private benefits at public costs. The beneficiaries of the services can work to find ways to finance their work without taxpayer support. $65 million.

Revenue Sharing: Since 2011, the state has increased its payments to local governments beyond the inflation rate and beyond what is required by the Michigan Constitution. Redirecting these general payments to road funding would still transfer money to counties, cities and villages, but they would have to be used for specified road uses. $104 million.

Great Start Readiness Program: The state has expanded the income eligibility of this program and now provides subsidies to many families who can afford to pay for their own children's preschool. Lawmakers can reduce payments while still ensuring that poorer households receive support. $114 million.

Strategic Fund: The state operates business subsidy and support programs that are ineffective and wasteful. Resources spent here can be better spent on roads. $125 million.

In short, the state could direct another $1 billion to roads by making them a priority. The figures mentioned here refer to the House-passed budgets and represent a total of $1,062 million that could be redirected to roads. If applied to the governor's recommendation, they would redirect $1,221 million. If applied to the Senate-passed budget, they would redirect $1,127 million.

Box Officials Have No Comment About Story

"Tecumseh Box Looks Elsewhere To Expand" was a headline in the Toledo Blade Saturday and again focused attention on the local company's recent plans to expand here.

Box officials here refused to comment on the article when questioned as to the article's authenticity and immediate plans of the company.

Portions of the article read, "Council block home plant extension, so additions set for Van Wert, Rossford."

"A 32,000-square-foot manufacturing plant at the Willis Day Industrial Park, now under construction, will be doubled in size."

"Also doubled at the Wood County site will be manpower requirements, now expected to total about 50 persons. The plant will be completed in late November."

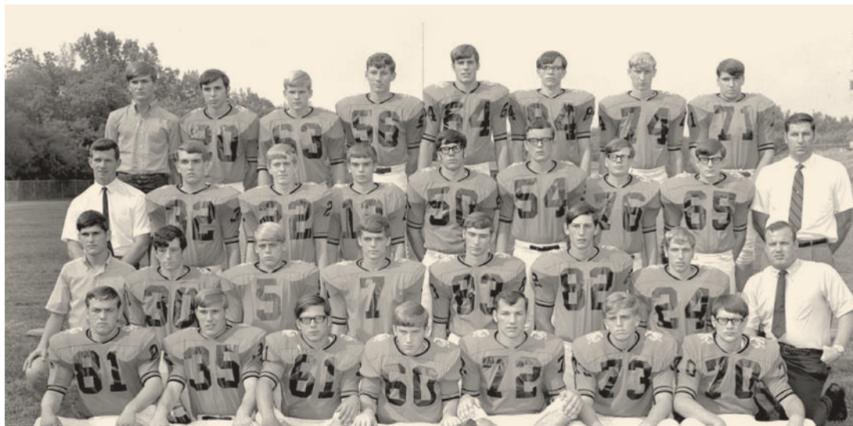

In reference to the industrial park at Rossford and Van Wert, the article said "the two northwestern Ohio plants were built because of rejections of construction permits in Tecumseh. And, "we are pleased with the communities that we have located in, they seem to appreciate us, and we are able to progress with them."

One paragraph read, in effect, "wouldn't be too surprised if one day one of the new plants becomes more important than our Tecumseh operations."

Portions of the article included information carried in the past by The Herald.

Last month, Tecumseh Box sought a building permit for expansion and was turned down when Council tabled the issue until a formal request was submitted.

At that time, Box officers stated they were shelving construction plans here, and would not approach the Board of Appeals for relief.

Friends Dedicating New Church Sunday

Dedication of the new Friends Church, situated on a 40-acre site at the northern edge of Tecumseh, will be held at 2:30 p.m., Sunday, Sept., 14, with many of the members and friends close to the effort taking part in the service.

The new building is red brick colonial with walnut and white interior.

The Rev. Russell Myers, general superintendent of the Ohio Yearly Meeting Friends Church, will present the dedicatory address.

The charge to the congregation will be given by the Rev. Sherman Brantingham, assistant superintendent of the Ohio Yearly Meeting, and also a brother of the Rev. Paul Brantingham, local pastor.

The Rev. Edward Escolme, former pastor of the Friends Church here for 39 years, will give the prayer of dedication and will also speak at the 10:00 a.m. morning worship service Sunday.

Special music has been arranged for the program with Mrs. Loren Avery and Mrs. Paul Brantingham at organ and piano. The choir will sing, "Bless This House."

Mrs. Ashley Chase, Mrs. Leland Fogelsong and Mrs. Lee Spohr will sing in trio.

Raynor Van Valkenburg, clerk of the local meeting, will take charge of the recognition of guests. Walter Wiemer will offer the dedication prayer for the offering.

Ralph Comfort, chairman of the building committee and the Rev. Paul Brantingham, pastor, will receive the keys to the new building from the architectural and contracting firms.

The program will close with the benediction by the Rev. Lawrence Cox of the Raisin Valley Friends Church.

Property for the new facility was purchased six years ago from Mrs. E. J. Aebersold. The adjacent parsonage was purchased three years ago from Mrs. Lee Phibbs.

The Brantinghams moved into their new home in July of this year.

The church will now accommodate 600 persons for worship and Christian education purposes.

"Cost-wise," the pastor said, "it has escalated so much that I really don't know just what the figure is."

He also said, "The consummation of the undertaking has been made possible through the untiring and sacrificial efforts of many of the members and friends of the Tecumseh Friends Church, many worked 20 and 30 hours a week over and above their usual vocations."

Numerous opportunities for Tecumseh area residents to see and enjoy the new building this weekend are made possible by other than the actual dedicatory program Sunday afternoon.

Clayton Erb, concert organist and minister of music of the Gilead Baptist Church in Detroit, will present a program of selections from the standard concert repertoire as well as some of his own compositions Saturday evening at 7.

The New World Singers will be heard at the Sunday evening meeting at 7:30.

Two Arrested for Grand Larceny

Two Adrian men have been charged with grand larceny from the Tecumseh Products and are currently out on bond.

Arrested here last Friday were John C. Moray, 42, and Gary Lee Leveque, 22, in the theft of 13 pounds of silver solder, an approximate value of $300.

Moray was picked up by the Tecumseh police for possession of the solder just before the shift change Friday afternoon. About 20 minutes later, police arrested Leveque, a TP employee, who had been observed dropping off Moray in the vicinity of the solder.

The solder had been tossed off over a fence earlier in the day. Plant protection at the plant discovered it and notified the local police.

Magistrate Ernest Oliver placed both under $5,000 bond. They were confined in the county jail Friday evening, and then demanded examination at arraignment Saturday in District Court.

Examination date has not been set yet.

Migrant Camps Are Deplorable

By Thomas J. Weston, Public Health Engineer, and Lewis Glaser, Acting Health Director

On Friday, September 5, 1969, we inspected three migrant labor camps on which we had received complaints. We found conditions to be quite deplorable in each of the three camps.

Up to this point, inspections had been made and licenses issued by the State Health Department; however, the County Health Department has the right to inspect migrant camps in the county.

Even though the conditions of the camps were deplorable, it was our feeling that the lack of education of the workers in regard to cleanliness, health, etc., leaves much to be desired.

As of 1970 the County Health Department will be doing the licensing inspections rather than the state. The balance of this year we will recommend that improvements be made to bring camps up to acceptable health department standards.

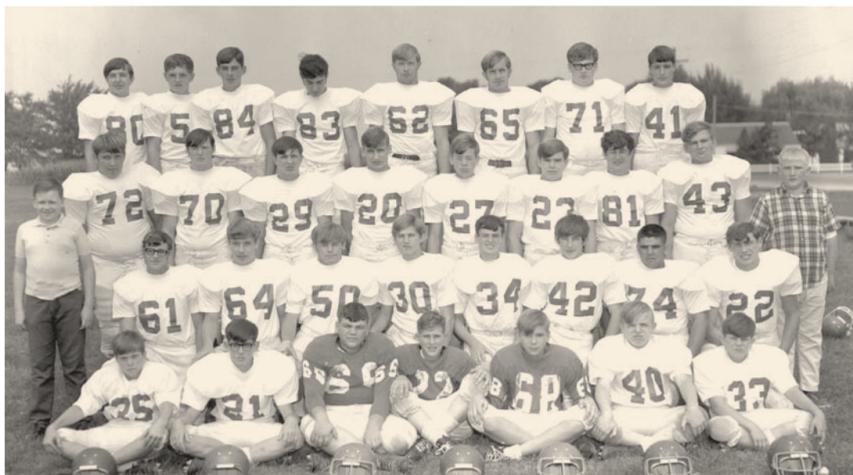

As licenses have already been issued, we feel that by closing the camps it would cause hardships to both the farmers and the migrants, as the migrants are already here and the season half over.

Within the next 10 days letters will be sent out to the owners of all existing migrant camps within the county advising them of the Federal, state and county requirements which they will be expected to meet next year, if they intend to re-open their camps. The camps will be inspected early in the spring of 1970 rather than during the summer.

Tecumseh defeats D-1 soccer team Saturday

By JEFF STEERS
Special Writer

A communication problem caused havoc for the Tecumseh High School boys' varsity soccer team Saturday in the first half of a home match against Woodhaven.

THS Coach Jerry Nowak was able to explain what was happening to the Indians and turn things around.

Tecumseh outscored Woodhaven in the second half of a 5-3 win. With the victory, the Indians improved to 4-5 overall.

"If we had played like that (in the second half) all season, we would be 8-1 right now," Nowak said after the win. "We were getting lazy and not tracking people on the back side (of the defense)."

"We concentrated on tracking in the second half and it worked."

Tecumseh scored the first two goals of the game after playing well defensively against a big push by Woodhaven in the first 15 minutes of the same.

Zach Wright scored for Tecumseh on a penalty kick at the 22:47 point of the first half. The penalty kick was ordered after a Woodhaven player was called for a push in the back against a THS player in the box.

THS junior Aiden Cornish scored the second goal of the game after stealing a pass and beating defenders for a 2-0 lead.

But Woodhaven scored three goals in the next 12:38 after getting behind defenders. Woodhaven led 3-2 at halftime.

But Tecumseh had four great shots at the goal in the first few minutes of the second half.

But Woodhaven goalie Nico Smith "stood on his head" according to Nowak and held the Indians at bay. Woodhaven could not hold Tecumseh scoreless forever.

Cornish used his speed to get past a pair of defenders to tie the score at 3-3 midway through the second half.

He scored a third goal at the 10:35 mark of the second half on a rebound off a free kick.

His assist to Connor Hoshield gave Tecumseh its fifth goal of the game.

Cornish said the Indians came out more focused in the second half.

"We fixed our communication problem (on the defensive side) in the second half," Cornish said. "We came out with more focus offensively."

The Indians started the season slowly, but have won a number of games as of late.

"I think we are figuring things out," Cornish said.

THS goalie Cody Everly made nine saves in the contest.

Tecumseh outshot Woodhaven 9-3 in the second half, after being outshot 11-3 in the first.

The Indians will travel to Ypsilanti Thursday for a 5:30 p.m. start.

Indians lose to Railsplitters in second football matchup

Tecumseh's varsity football team played Ypsilanti Lincoln Friday, Sept. 6 at Indian Stadium, but the home advantage didn't help the Indians in their quest to secure a win.

The Railsplitters scored to open the game. The Indians got a touchdown pass in the first quarter, although Tecumseh managed to get another touchdown, Lincoln scored the final 21 points to end the game 35-12.

"What happened last week is our team stopped listening to those outside the arena," said Head Coach Greg Dolson. "Our kids took a big step forward in terms of believing in themselves. They learned a valuable life lesson that no matter how difficult a task is, when they believe they can accomplish the goal and continue to fight good things can happen. Our staff was so proud of how we played last Friday against a team that had several scholarship players on it."

Dolson said that although the team was disappointed to lose, there were many good things about the game, not the least of which was his pride in senior Jake Alderman's efforts as quarterback. "To Jake's credit he never once complained or quit working. Jake kept preparing each week like he was going to start and when his team needed him the most he was ready and executed his role at a very high level. In that game our guys who needed to make plays came ready to play and we played with great energy and a positive attitude. We took a big step forward this week and it gave us some momentum moving into week three. We learned that belief and enthusiasm are powerful in terms of being successful."

The Indians play Monroe at home Friday, Sept. 13 and will honor the public servants in and around the community, reinforcing the importance of sacrifice and service, according to Dolson. "Our program believes strongly in being a servant leader and that when you live to serve people everyone becomes better," he said. "Each of our players has invited a public servant to a dinner held on Sunday. At this dinner they are asked to introduce their guest and explain what it is they do. Our guest will then be honored at our game against Monroe."

Indians volleyball team wins two, loses one

Tecumseh's varsity volleyball team played Lenawee Christian School (LCS) and Dundee High School at the Dundee Tri-Meet Thursday, Sept. 5. The Indians beat Dundee in three, 25-15, 25-27, and 15-11. They lost to LCS in three, 26-24, 21-25, and 9-15.

Stat leaders were Lyndsey Benschoter with 38 assists and three aces, Bailee Ford with 20 digs and two aces, Morgan Dillon with 12 kills, and Jaden Benschoter and Rachel Haft both had 11 kills. Eva Alcock had eight kills and Kyla Abbott had seven digs and one ace.

In their next match at Jackson Tuesday, Sept. 10, the Indians won in three, 25-16, 25-16, and 25-16.

Stat leaders were Jaden Benschoter with 9 kills and two blocks, Grace Dickerson and Riley Chenevey each with five kills, Haft with five kills and two blocks, and Dillon with four kills. Ford had five digs and two aces, Lyndsey Benschoter had 17 assists, two aces and seven digs, Samantha Wright had four digs, and Leah Chatell had nine assists. "It was great to have so many people contribute to our win tonight!" said Coach Kelsey Lindquist.

The team is now 13-7-1. They play next at Whitmore Lake on Saturday, Sept. 14.

TCA Season Preview to feature free concert, food

By JACKIE KOCH
jackie@tecumsehherald.com

Tecumseh Center for the Arts (TCA) will give the public a taste of what's to come in entertainment on Saturday, Sept. 21, when the Free Season Preview event kicks off the new season featuring music, comedy, acrobatics and more.

"The TCA is thrilled to celebrate our 39th season," said Director Kelly Jo Gilmore. "It's jam-packed with gifted musicians, nationally known comedic talent and steam punk themed aerial acts."

Patrons, business sponsors and the public are invited to attend this sneak peek event. The TCA lobby will open its doors at 6 p.m. with a dinner provided by 3 Dudes & Dinner, featuring poached pear salad, lemon thyme chicken, whole roasted beef tenderloin with whisky peppercorn sauce, garlic smashed herb potatoes, oven roasted autumn vegetables and spiced baked apples.

The TCA's cash bar will be open featuring Flying Otter Winery, and a meet and greet session with some of this year's partners, including Tecumseh Pops Orchestra and Community Chorus, The TCA Big Band & VocalAires, Neighbors of Hope, and more, will take place.

At 7 p.m. Ear Candy will perform live on the TCA stage to help kick off this year's season. Ear Candy is a local group of women who have performed in public and private venues in Southeast Michigan and Northwest Ohio for the past seven years. Their songs include music from the 1920s up to the present including selections from Irving Berlin, Willie Nelson, the Mamas and the Papas, the Andrews Sisters, the Beatles, the Carpenters, Cyndi Lauper, Disney songs, Broadway tunes, as well as other favorites.

TCA staff will recognize this year's business sponsorships and volunteer ushers and will show the new sizzler reel highlighting this year's National Touring Season. "Thank you to all of our business sponsors for helping make this season possible," Gilmore said. "The amount of collaboration and support for the TCA is incredibly humbling. We are so blessed to have an amazing community that supports the theater."

In addition to the National Touring Season, the year's shows include the TCA Michigan Homegrown Project that focuses on celebrating local Tecumseh and Michigan area artists. The project was created in 2016 to emphasize the importance of sharing the theater stage with local artistic groups while building lasting relationships between art organizations and the theater.

Those in attendance will have a chance to win a set of complimentary tickets to one of the TCA's touring shows including John Latini and the Flying Latini Brothers, The Legends of Michigan Comedy Show, New York, NY Dueling Pianos, le Cirque Esprit, and Phase 5 Motown Tribute Band.

"We hope the Tecumseh community and surrounding areas think of the TCA when planning a night out. We want to be a destination where both local residents and those traveling from out of town can appreciate the performing arts," Gilmore said.

The Season Preview event is sponsored by Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs and the TCA's 39th season sponsor, 3 Dudes & Dinner.

To R.S.V.P. by September 15 and obtain free Season Preview tickets, visit thetca.org, go to the box office Tuesday-Friday between noon and 5 p.m., or call 423.6617.
